Governor's Advisory Council Meets Here

Sixteen of a nineteen member board of the Governor's Advisory Council of Agriculture from every section of Missouri, voiced their opinions concerning better farming, at the Holiday Inn, Thursday.

It was the first meeting of the council held outstate, and gave members an opportunity to learn of the bootheel farming practices.

The next meeting has been set for Springfield.

Leading the discussion was agriculture commissioner Dexter Davis, Wendell Choate, Charleston, welcomed the group to this area. Choate pointed out to the members that this section had faired well in that there were by few flooding acres in the entire area, but that a small section still lacked moisture.

The entire rural legislative report was reviewed, and showed that most of bills died on the legislative calendar, failed to be brought up due to the numerous tax legislation that filled the agenda.

Sen. Nelson Tinnin, Hornersville, discussed the food stamp program, that would permit the department of welfare to be placed in charge, whereby persons could choose between the stamps to serve as cash for groceries and other items, or continue under the free commodity program. The program would be started in 25 counties at the be-outset. The bill will be brought before the next legislature, and has the backing of the agriculture council. Tinnin commented, "what bothers me was the holdup of many of the bills, with only 281 measures being passed in the entire session."

Dr. Norman Brown, head of the Delta Area Agriculture experimental station, Portageville, was the noon speaker. He said that for many years cotton had been the most important crop, "but today all sections of the nation can now grow equal qulity, and that the crop would have to be grown cheaper. The soybean crop was advanced in past few years, and made it possible to have a two - crop season by following wheat with the beans.

Tinnin added, "If we can develop a barley crop of high quality for malt, it would be boom for the farmer. We also have the sugar beet that may be a coming crop for a good number of acres."

He said there are 300 acres of Sugar Beets in experiment, and if the Great Western Sugar Beet company could get an allotment for more growing, it would bring, 30,000 acres to this acrea.

Vegetable crops are gaining, and with the land and the knowhow this area could produce vegetables for a fast growing national population. Brown said, "it must be remembered that the farming program can change greatly with he Noranda plant in the area, that would affect our labor rates.

A discussion was held on the hog cholera, showing that there were 54 oubreaks in the state. A 30-day quarentine is in effect, and would continue until July 21. A recommendation was made that all feeder pigs be tagged, all boar pigs castrated, and not moved from the farm, and that concrete floor used in all production.

Benton O'Neil, St. Joseph spoke on the money rates, when he said, "there is but one money lender in the state, and the most funds would be from New York. Every borrower would be subsidized up to 2 and one-half per cent, and he would not encourage young men to enter farming. Business and incorporations can obtain enough money, but farming would be handicapped at the high interest rates.

Commissioner Davis explained, "I've never seen anything like in the country, where we have full employment, with runaway inflation.

Since farm land values are down, there is not much agriculture can do, and there is

Thieu Calls For Free Elections

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu today proposed free elections to settle the Vietnam war, saying the Viet Cong can participate if they pledge to renounce violence and abide by the results of balloting. He called for international supervision to insure "conditions fair to all."

President Nixon said today the new peace proposals by President Thieu "should open the way at last for a rapid settlement" of the Vietnam war - if the Communists will begin serious negotiations.

There was no immediate reaction to the proposal from parties at the Paris peace talks. But observers said it was unlikely to end the stalemate at the negotiating table since Hanoi and the Viet Cong's provisional revolutionary government insist the United States must withdraw all its troops and the Thieu regime must step down as the first steps to end the war.

With Thieu's proposal, made in a radio address, all four major parties to the war have called for a ballot-box settlement.

Justifiable Homicide Ruling

NEW MADRID -- A coroner's jury deliberated five minutes here this morning before handing down a "justifiable homicide" ruling in connection with the Wednesday night slaying of Robert Eugene Reed, 23, Parma.

Reed, who had been stopped for speeding in Parma, was wounded fatally after attacking City Marshall Hollis "Doc" Lindley, the State Highway Patrol reported.

At this morning's inquest, Lindley said Reed began fighting for the officer's gun after getting into the patrol car. Lindley said Reed hit him on the right side of his head. Lindley reached down to the floor of the car and procured a .38 pistol with his left hand.

Lindley testified he fired the pistol at Reed, but thought he fired higher than he did. The bullet entered Reed beneath the left shoulder, and traveled to a point near the heart.

Reed died enroute to a Memphis, Tenn., hospital.

Reeds wife, Edna Mae, 26, and a sister, Mollie Reed, 16, were passengers in the car when the arrest was made. His wife said she was walking from their car to the officer's car when she heard the shot fired. Miss Reed said she was in the stopped car when the shot was fired. They both appeared to testify this morning in shorts. Reeds sister was barefooted.

The coroner, Gene Glayton, presided over the inquest that lasted from 10 a.m. until about 11:10 a.m. Parma City Attorney Harold D. Jones represented Lindley.

Jurors were Jimmie Edwards, Jim Cravens, Wilson Phillips, Howard Chrisler, Raymond Howard and J. D. Dowd.

Sikeston Guards Complete Two Construction Projects

By JERRY OBERMARK

FT. LEONARD WOOD -- The Sikeston unit of the Missouri Army National Guard - Company C, 1140th Engineer Battalion as it is known in military terminology -- will complete two major construction projects during its two-week summer encampment, which ends today. The unit will return to Sikeston Saturday.

Company C drills in Sikeston, but is composed of two Portageville platoons, each with about 30 men, and two Sikeston platoons, also, composed of about 30 men.

The men of the Sikeston platoons engaged in a bridge repair project during the encampment. They removed the rotten wood decking and treadway of the unused bridge on the fort; replaced the decking and treadway with new wood, and painted the piling for the bridge. The unit also cleared brush and trees for 100 meters on each side of the 60 foot bridge site and made it a usable, sound bridge again. Lt. Jerry Lathum, Matthews, a bookkeeper for Gulf Chemicals Co. in Sikeston, was the project officer.

Lt. Lathum worked the men no longer than 30 minutes at a time because of the extreme heat and the nature of the work. Work crews, usually consisting of 30 men at the bridge site, worked 30 minutes then took a 15-minute break.

There is little doubt that he accomplished more from his men by working them in this manner, one man at the project site commented. The intense heat during the encampment would have caused heat stroke or heat exhaustion, if he had not given the men the frequent breaks.

The men seemed to respond well to the treatment. Their project was among the first completed of the units attending summer camp this year.

Permanent Army personnel stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood commented favorably on the bridge repair. Two officers inspected the site Tuesday morning and complimented Lt. Lathum's men for their outstanding work.

The two platoons from Portageville in C Company cut a swath 1½ miles long through heavily wooded hinterland on the fort to build a "crash road." The road will be used mainly as an access road to rescue plane crash survivors. It is located about one mile north of the fort air runway in the area where planes both take off and approach the air strip.

Lt. Robert Little, a State Highway Patrolman who lives in Hayti, is the project officer of the crash road. Initial work of planning the road route to be sliced out of the woods was completed by the U. S. Forestry Service, before the unit arrived at summer camp, The work crews began the road construction by matching chain saws and axes against the hardwood. Bulldozers were then used to remove the stumps, and road graders began plowing a path for the roadbed. Then, gravel was hauled in by the tons and spread for the roadway. Grubbing - the removal of roots from the roadway and adjoining shoulders - was among the last of the cleanup operations for the road construction.

The road was not compacted to the extent necessary for making a good road for everyday use. Time would not allow this. But it will serve as a good artery to a previously inaccessible area in the event of a plane crash.

Officers viewing the work of Company C were impressed with the quality of the work, especially considering the unit was an infantry unit until it was reorganized in January, 1968, and retraining as an engineer unit started. The company commander is Captain M. B. Thomas III of Sikeston. associated pictures on page 10.

Recovery Inc. Has Four Homes Ready

Four houses developed by Recovery, Inc. are ready for occupancy pending FHA approval which will be received early next week, city manager Raymert Miller said at 7:30 p.m. yesterday at a Sikeston Recovery, Inc. meeting in the City Administration Bldg.

"The inspector was here today, and Recovery may expect approval on the four houses Monday or Tuesday," Charles Mitchell, Recovery member said. The houses already have purchasers and are part of the organization's efforts to construct low- cost housing in Sikeston.

The board voted to allow occupancy of the houses at 314, 316, 212 Alabama St. and 320 Dixie St. on a rental basis, at the same amount as the loan payment, until the FHA loan is closed.

Approval for plans of project Turnkey III, for 69 low-cost housing units will be received within three weeks, Billy Hanna, Sikeston housing director, said. The single - family units will have payments based on 20 to 25 per cent of the family income, equity will be built up, and after 25 years, the family will own the home.

"Construction could be started this fall, but because of bad weather it may be early spring," Hanna said. After approval for the project is received, Recovery will advertise for developers' bids, plans will be forwarded to Ft. Worth, and construction will begin.

"The program Turnkey III, is a good deal, but the people must understand the terms of the contract, Richard James, Recovery member, said. A meeting to explain increasing payments as income increases will be held after the program is approved, for those who have signed up for Turnkey III. Recovery should clarify that payments on the houses will be a percentage of income, but cannot increase above a maximum level, Louis Wiggins said. When the income increases to a certain point determined by federal Housing and Urban Development, financing of the house will be the responsibility of the purchaser.

"There are six additional lots we can start construction on providing we can get plans going," Raymert Miller said. Miller suggested surveys be made on six lots, as a result of the June 19 FHA confirmation of a request for 10 housing units, not a part of Turnkey III. Miller suggested authorizing Buckmiller, Whitworth and Foust, local architects, to draw up the plans for the 10 low-rent housing units, with payment when Recovery, Inc. can meet them.

COMMERCE — About 12,000 acres of prime soybean crops two miles south of here on Big Island went under water last night when the last of two restraining levees gave way to churning waters of the Mississippi River.

The levee broke about 8:30 p.m. and farmers, and volunteers worked more than six hours removing farm equipment to higher ground.

Farmers had worked throughout the week sandbagging the levee, which can adequately restrain water up to 36 feet in depth. The levee gave way when the water reached 37 feet and the river is expected to reach 38 feet before subsiding.

This is the first year since before 1960 the levee has been broken, but it is the second time this year. The levee broke earlier in the spring and destroyed a lesser amount of acreage of early planted crops. A volunteer, one of about 10 assisting farmers, said it is highly unusual for the water to break through this late in the year.

The break- through point was the same as earlier in the spring. Roy "Red" Proctor, Benton, aid the water cut through soft dirt that was placed in the levee following the spring flood.

Scott County Sheriff John Dennis, who was in charge of equipment evacuation, said it is impossible to determine the amount of losses. A farmer, whose land was included, said most of the lost crops had potential of producing 35 to 40 bushels per acre.

Thirteen farmers were named as having crops in the flooded region. They include Charles Beardsley, Charley Michael, Hershel Gillipine, Paul Hitt, Bob McVey, Elmer Poorman, Hays Laster, Larry and Bill Hopper, Herbert Berger, Lawrence Glause, Jimmy Johnson and Bud Wright.

There was a small amount of corn, lost, in addition to the soybeans.

Only one family lives in the area, but the water is not expected to reach the house. It is expected to make the home inacessible, however. A rescue worker said he believed all major pieces of farm equipment were removed before damaged.

Dr. Spock's Conviction Thrown out

BOSTON (AP)) The 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals reversed today the convictions of Dr. Benjamin Spock and three other men found guilty last year of conspiring to counsel young men to avoid the draft.

The court freed Spock and one of the other three-Harvard graduate student Michael Ferber- from further prosecution.

The four were among five tried before a U.S. District Court jury here. The fifth defendant, Marcus Raskin of Washington, was acquitted.

The appeals court held that the conviction of Spock and the three others was not consistent with the 1st Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which guarantees free speech.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
WHAT IS WELFARE?

Throughout the years since the very beginning of the exploration of the New World, this has been the land of opportunity. Early history is filled with early explorers' tales of streets paved with gold and the wealth that would reward any daring adventurer willing to migrate to the virgin land.

Over the decades since, millions of people have followed the ocean paths in search of the fulfillment of the promised dream. Some have made it, more in fact than ever before in the history of man. Others have not.

The American is, despite many shortcomings, a generous individual. He has learned that he has an unwritten obligation to his neighbor to help when needed. If another man is unable to care for himself why shouldn't he share in the abundance? If a man is unable temporarily to provide for his family's needs others will help him with the necessities until he is able to return to the work force. This is as it should be. We are a capitalist society. Each of us profits by the labor of others. What one produces another consumes. What is consumed is paid for with earnings received for productivity. The more men employed, the larger the market. Aid to the incapacitated is welfare. It is not demeaning. It is our way of proving to the world that we take care of our own. Aid to the temporarily unemployed is welfare. It, too, is not of itself degrading but a way of showing confidence in our system. It is an investment in the recipient's future, and should provide enough to prevent hunger or misery, without encouraging permanent unemployment.

When welfare provides a means of remaining unemployed, the time has come for Americans to have a careful look at exactly how much welfare can be dispensed without threatening their future.

CLEANING THE NEWSSTANDS

Recent public opinion polls bear out a long-time conviction of ours: The majority of the American adults do not favor newsstand sales of obscene literature.

We recognize the difficulty of defining what is, or is not, obscene. It is true that there are people who would classify certain sections of the Bible as objectionable. A nude painting or statue may be found morally offensive by a particular individual. Recently, Virginia Representative Joel Broyhill strongly criticized the District of Columbia's summer program agency for presenting a performance by African dancers for the District's youth. His protest was leveled at the topless native costumes. Some might forgive this show as an art form. It's a matter of personal opinion.

Many objectionable things exist that may provoke us: movies, books, magazines that depict blatant immorality. But we do not say that these should be outlawed on the basis of personal judgment. If an adult wishes to view such movies or read material of that sort, it is his own affair. Our concern lies with the exposure of these exhibits to young, immature minds.

It is possible that the reason for the opposition of so many people to newsstand display of offensive literature is its easy accessibility to the young. Some of the magazines we have seen don't even have to be opened to be offensive, the cover photos are descriptive enough to convey their message.

It is up to magazine distributors, publishers and newsstand operators to police themselves. We wouldn't want to see the government move into the picture. Too often government interference leads to too much control and only makes the situation worse. But if the powers in the industry fail to act, the public may demand legislation and the fault will rest with the industry for its inertia.

INCOME MAINTENANCE AHEAD

President Richard M. Nixon's broad welfare reform proposals are expected to go to Congress sometime during the week of June 16.

The Parodox of an explosion of relief rolls in the midst of plenty of bugging domestic policy experts of the Nixon administration. The historic ratio between employment and relief -- as one goes up the other is supposed to go down -- is all out of joint.

The unemployment rate in May was 3.5 per cent of the labor force, for a total of 2.5 million. Unemployment is around its lowest point since the Korean War. But relief rolls had reached a total of 9,030,000 persons in January this year, with total payments of $900,848,000 in that month. As recently as September 1966 the total number of recipients was 7,853,400.

The bulk of welfare last January was accounted for by Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), with 1,544,000 families. This breaks down to 6,215,000 persons, of which 4,646,000 were children. AFDC payments in January came to $266,707,000.

Against this background the Nixon administration has been working out its program of welfare reforms. Almost certainly the new system will call for federal financing of minimum monthly payments of $30 to $40 per person.

The President's income maintenance scheme, Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare Robert H. Finch said on June 4, stems from a report made early in January by a Nixon task force. Headed by Richard P. Nathan, now assistant Director of the Budget Bureau, it urged a federal monthly minimum relief payment.

The administration program will represent an attempt to bring order out of the present hodge-podge of public assistance programs that are unpopular with both taxpayers and recipients. AFDC, assistance for the disabled, and old-age assistance vary widely because of joint federal-state participation. New York State already has had to cut back its share of welfare payments drastically, and other states are running low on funds.

AFDC benefits for a dependent child now range from $8.50 a month in Mississippi to $71.48 in New York. A federal floor on welfare payments would shorten the range.

Presumably, the Nixon program will have the federal government subsidize the income of fathers who hold jobs at low pay. The idea at first blush sounds odd coming from a Republican administration. But the National Commission on Technology, Automation, and Economic Progress in 1966 recommended that "economic security be guaranteed by a floor under family income."

Moreover, the commission, whose 14 members included industrialists, labor leaders, and welfare workers, observed that "concrete proposals for such an income allowance program" had been advanced by a number of authorities. It cited as examples three economists, Milton Friedman of the University of Chicago, Robert Lampman of the University of Wisconsin, and James Tobin of Yale. Friedman had been economic adviser to Barry Goldwater during the latter's campaign for the Presidency in 1964.

The Republican platform in 1968 pledged: "We will modify the rigid welfare requirements that stifle work motivation." Richard Nixon in his campaign last year spoke against the so-called negative income tax advocated by Prof. Friedman. But any income guarantee will be a step in that direction.

THE STUPID GOAT

A commuting writer for the News-Sun, Kendallville, Indiana, writes what he sees along the road to and from his work:

". . .we've noticed a white angora billy goat with his head through the fence beside the road. He seems to be waiting patiently for help to extricate him because his horns turn back and he's caught like a fish in a gill net. He must really relish that lush grass just beyond the fence and he seems to be confident that someone will help him out. The episode struck us as being so parallel to the situation of we Americans today . . . We (so) love that lushness just beyond what comes by the sweat of our brows that we've been tempted beyond our freedom and we lose it until the man comes along to help us out . . . What would happen if that farmer got tired of loosening the stupid goat, or got sick, or involved elsewhere?"

When we expect government to solve all our problems for us and guarantee our security from the cradle to the grave, we are indeed acting like the stupid goat.

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you caught in the summer doldrums?

Many people are. They have come down with the hot weather blues. Life seems stale, routine and dull, too humdrum to be stood.

"Nothing seems worth doing," they say.

That's nonsense. There always are a number of things worth doing. If nothing else, you can write down a list of fairly odd daydreams and try to make a few of them come true.

For example, you might—

Take a correspondence course in sky writing.

Get a part-time job as a human fly.

Count the contents of a can of peas.

Become the donor for the first human freckle transplant.

Listen for the crack of doom.

Sing a bawdy song at your next PTA meeting.

Beat City Hall.

Adopt a baby dolphin and keep it in your bathtub.

Champ at a bit.

Paste your own portrait among the photos of the "ten most wanted criminals" in your local post office and see how long it is before you're caught.

Take a ride through a sewer in a glass-bottomed boat.

Run away from home with your baby sitter's mother.

Learn Esperanto.

Go on a diet of hard tack.

Write a new old folk song.

Try to whistle Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata."

Memorize a poem by Allen Ginsberg backwards.

Peel a watermelon.

Write a long fan letter to the lonely old guy nobody remembers in midsummer—Santa Claus.

Try to teach an old dog at least one new trick.

Tattoo your wife.

Go down in the basement and see if you can make a batch of home brew as good as your grandpop made during prohibition.

Play like you've got $10 million, and then compose a long last will and testament in which you disinherit everybody.

Find a wonder drug that will cure all the ailments that other wonder drugs now cause.

As a last resort, you can get rid of your summer boredom—and surprise everybody in your office—by buckling down and doing an honest day's work. That, of course, is an extreme measure and one not to be tried except with the advice and consent of your physician.

Bad News for Crooks

Americans spent more than $2½ billion on their law enforcement departments last year. Even in this inflated age, that's a lot of money, and since neither crime nor traffic nor any other area promises to get smaller, the cost can only go higher.

Because it is such big business and important business, "It is only logical that our cities will be running these operations with all the tools now utilized routinely by large corporations," predicts one expert.

According to Prof. William Hewitt, senior law enforcement consultant for Cybernetics Development Inc., of Englewood, N.J., between 65 and 86 per cent of the nation's law enforcement agencies will soon turn to computer-based information and electronic crime prevention systems.

CDI is one of a number of companies which do not manufacturer computers but specialize in their application to different fields. In law enforcement this involves advising, training and working with local police and justice personnel through the whole range of their activities - from departmental organization and administration to recruitment to patrol beats to traffic studies to court and prison operation.

One of the most provocoative uses of electronic law enforcement is in the study of crime patterns in any given area by day of the week and hour of the day. With their "electronic auxiliary," police have frequently been able to predict the occurrence of an attempted crime to its exact location and time.

Single (Minded) Girl and Sex

In one of the most widely quoted statements in recent days, Clare Boothe Luce averred that life was chancy for the young women of today. Young men just don't want to get married any more, and the only answer to that, she said, is for the girls to be "supersexy."

"Fortunately for woman, her body is still a trap - if no longer a baby trap, a man trap.

The accomplished Mrs. Luce, who is an outstanding example of felicitous combination of both beauty and brains, hasn't been reading the right statistics.

The annual number of marriages in the United States has been increasing without interruption since 1958. In the past seven years, the increase has amounted to 32 per cent. (In the same period the birth rate has steadily declined, so she is right about the baby trap part of it.)

In 1968, more than two million marriages took place, the highest of any year except the immediate post war year of 1946, when everybody was a little wacky.

True, the number of marriage-eligible people has also been increasing but there has been no appreciable change in the percentage of spinsters or bachelors.

No mere male will complain if Mrs. Luce helps launcha trend to "supersexiness," even if it does lead to more marriages -- although the statistics show the girls must already be doing something right. But the trouble is that too often the bait is removed after the man trap is sprung.

Therein lies the story behind many of the 400,000 divorces in this country every year, and behind possibly a far greater number of unsatisfactory marriages which don't deteriorate as far as divorce."

Like a diamond, sexiness (it doesn't even have to be "super") ought to be forever.

DIVIDENDS FOR THE FUTURE

Quite frequently refugees from nations where the people are subjected to political oppression quickly become loyal supporters of the U.S. system of government and private enterprise. Another source of support has now been reported, which is encouraging.

About 12 per cent of Peace Corps volunteers returning to this country head straight for business. It is said that their experience with American business firms in underdeveloped nations of the world has impressed them favorably. These volunteers end up wanting very much to be part of such organizations, and they are coming back to go into banking, into manufacturing, into technical services training. According to the report, the Peace Corps is now feeding into industry and business about as many recruits as there are students with business majors graduating from American colleges.

The Peace Corps, in the opinion of many, has been one of the more worthy programs. Its members have helped promote international understanding and the well-being of underdeveloped areas. The fact that they return to the U.S. with a greater appreciation of its institutions is a dividend that may have a telling effect on the future of our nation.

H.L. Hunt Says

"HISTORY IS DULL!"

Mr. Sherman Edwards, a former history teacher, jazz pianist and composer has made good use of his talents. He is the prime reason hat the current smash hit on Broadway, "1776," is such a success.

One of the biggest hits ever to be on Broadway, "1776" has won the Tony Award and the Drama Critics Award as the season's best musical and is still considered a "hot ticket" with long lines at the box office. National touring groups and Movie companies are bidding for rights to present the patriotic show.

Broadway, however, is not noted for its support of patriotic productions. Mr. Edwards tells of many producers refusing to even consider the show because "history is dull." As a matter of fact, the musical leans away from the standard "smashes" of Broadway since it contains patriotic subject matter, its sex interest in minimal, it hasn't got a big star in the cast but instead depicts American history, in Mr. Edward's words, with "affectionate accuracy."

Edwards also points out that with the great success of the show at the box office, a goodly percentage of the audiences has been school children. He spares no punches in his remarks about history books for school: "Well, history isn't dull, though maybe the way it's taught is."

This is just onene more example of the current trend to the Right. A rash of other historical shows, even some with numerical titles, are being considered for production. Edwards, himself, has plans for more and hopefully as good shows along the same lines as "1776." Patriots should strike while the iron is hot and not let the turn to the Right diminish. Letters of support to this and any other patriotic endeavor can cause the turn to grown even larger; and this is something one person can do in behalf of Freedom.

TIME TO BE CONSTRUCTIVE

The June 17th primaries disclosed the greatest change in political philosophy since Freedom and Americanism began their fatal trip "down the drain" in 1930. A candidate who was unexpectedly defeated in an upset complained, "The Republican Party has been destroyed by conservatives."

He did not try to charge that it was destroyed by turning "too constructive." "Conservative" is not nearly as fitting for a fine political philosophy as "Constructive," and it is to be hoped that the winners of some of this balloting will not seek to destroy but to build and are truly "Constructives."

To be Constructive is to be for honor, liberty, truth and all of so many parts that, when combined, mean freedom. Nothing is easier than to be against something and while we should combat crime and subversiveness, we should do this in a Constructive manner. Freedomists are very much in the majority and the truth is always on the Freedom side.

Some patriots thought they detected a turn to the Right in 1967. Now with these Freedom-side victories, the turn has become a stampede. Seasoned anti-communists who have stuck to their guns over the last few years have been vindicated.

This realization of the dream of patriots of a "turn to the Right" is now a dream come true. A golden opportunity has opened for everyone who loves our Republic and hopes for it a long and useful life. In order to support and expand this dream, patriots should rally behind patriotic news media and business advertising. Freedom is most dependent on the press and the press is most dependent on business advertising.

Love of country is not dead and people in the U.S. are tired of crime, demonstrations and gun-barrel demands. The majority may have finally overcome the most selfish minorities. HLH

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson say: Republican bankers desert Nixon in favor of bank lobbyists; many congressmen voting with bankers lobby own bank stock; bankers have been taking over Pizza Parlors, TV and Radio stations

WASHINGTON--A group of lobbyists representing the biggest banks in the country sat in the house banking and currency committee as chairman Wright Patman of Texarkana, Tex., marked up the new bank-holding bills.

The lobbyists included Jack Yingling of the First National City Bank of New York; John Holton of the American Bankers Association; Matt Hale of the ABA; Don Rogers of the Association of Registered Bank Holding Companies; and Robert Oliver of Sperry and Hutchinson, Inc., the S and H Green Stamp Company, together with three executives of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, biggest bank in North Carolina.

The Lobbyists watched every vote that was taken on every item in the bank bill. And when the committee was finished, they were able to telephone their banking bossies back home that they had scored an amazing victory. Every Republican congressman on the committee deserted the Nixon administration to give the bankers exactly what they wanted.

Five democrats also deserted their chairman, Rep. Patman, to vote with the bankers.

Significantly, half of the congressmen who deserted Nixon and Patman to line up with the bankers were either stockholders or directors in banks themselves.

At issue was the question of whether banks can go into business in competition with their own customers. This is a real advantage to banks which have set up non-banking enterprises such as department stores, insurance agencies, furniture and carpet factories, TV and radio stations, trading stamps and even Pizza Parlors.

--Plugging Loopholes--

Under this system which Patman and the treasury department sought to change, a bank can lend money at lower interest rates to its own department store or Pizza Parlor, as against a higher interest rate to a competitor. Or it can require a borrower to go down the street and do business with a subsidiary owned by the bank.

What Rep. Patman and the Nixon administration sought to plug was a loophole in the 1956 multi-bank holding company act which permits single banks to own commercial enterprises. For a good many years only small country banks took advantage of this. But 18 months ago the big banks spotted this loophole and there has been a stampede to take advantage of it.

Among the foremost of these has been the First National City Bank of New York, whose lobbyist, Jack Yingling, watched the house banking and currency committee last week.

Thirty-four of the 100 largest banks in the nation have either formed or announced their intention of establishing holding companies in the last 18 months. They are already in 100 different types of businesses.

The Patman bill, aimed at divorcing banks from competitive business, was a clearcut attempt to plug the loophole in the 1956 law and even tighten it. The Treasury Department Bill, not as strong as the Patman Bill, contained a grandfather clause whereby banks which has subsidiary business firms prior to June 30, 1968, could retain them.

However, neither bill survived the high-pressure tactics of the banking lobbyists. They had persuaded Rep. William Widnall, New Jersey Republican and friend of the bankers, to introduce the kind of bill they wanted which, among other things, permitted the banks to hold on to travel agencies, Pizza Parlors, Radio and TV stations land all other forms of business which they had acquired up until four months ago--Feb. 17, 1969.

--Watching The Congressmen--

The Wachovia Bank of Winston-Salem has been active just prior to lthat time, especially in acquiring insurance agents. It has also gone into the computer business. Its subsidiaries were formed on Dec. 31, 1967.

The man whom the Wachovia executives were watching during the markup of the bill was the Greek-American Congressman from Durham, N.C., Nick Galifianakis, who defeated the grandson of R.J. Reynolds. In that election Galifianakis played up the fact that he was the son of an immigrant running against a scion of big business. But on this key vote Galifianakis went down the line for big business.

Joining him were the following democrats: Robert Stephens, Ga., who owns stock in the First National Bank of Athens, Ga., Tom Gettys, S.C. Trustee of an estate with stock in the Rock Hill National Bank of Rock Hill, S.C.; together with Bevill, Ala., and Charles Griffin, Miss.

Every Republican on the committee joined in supporting the bankers against the Nixon Administration Bill. Bank stockholders or directors among the Republicans included William Brock, Tenn., connected with the Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga and Knoxville; Chester Mize, Kans., stockholders in a bank holding company; William Stanton, Ohio, connected with the Lake County National Bank; Del Clawson, Calif., connected with the home bank of Compton; J. Glenn Beall, Jr., Md., director of The First National Bank and Trust Company of Baltimore; and Albert Johnson, Pa., who stated in committee meeting that he is a bank director.

Note: Several democrats who own bank stock, including henry reuss, Wis., Tom Rees, Calif., Richard Hanna, Calif., and Lenore Sullivan, Mo., voted with chairman Patman for a No-compromise bank bill.

The Gospel Visitor

By: REEDUS M. BAUGHER

The greatest words, on man's behalf, to pass the lips of Christ, was when He said: "For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." (Luke 19:10) Even though Jesus came to earth for the purpose of seeking and saving, lost man; many will be lost when He comes to judge the world. (2 Cor. 5:10) Matt. 7:21) And this is not because of any deficiency in the Saviour, but rather, a failure on man's part to come to Jesus Christ, in His appointed way. (Matt. 11:28-30)

To be lost is something for which none of us wish, and is also something that we all plan NOT to do, and yet there will be multitudes who have had intentions for good in life, who will not be saved -- will be LOST FOREVER !! Too often we can see the danger in others neglecting their salvation, and often seek to justify our actions by what someone else has done, or hasn't done. But, this will not be our greatest concern when we meet the Lord, the Great Judge of all the earth, face to face. Our greatest concern at that time will be self -- have I done the will of God to the best of MY ability? Even though others will be lost, we shall not then be comparing ourselves to them. We will then be facing the FACTS -- about ourselves and truth. For MY salvation depends upon what I have or have not done with my opportunities to obey God. And we will then realize what really counts is whether or not I have done the will of God as written in His word. -- Not have I followed my opinions, the precepts of men, or my feelings. Neither will we be concerned about have I done as much, or more, than someone else; or have I been as good, or better, than another. Such is not the standard then to be used, and by which I should have been preparing myself all along.

When we stand before the judgment bar of God to answer for the deeds done in the body -- how we have either used or abused -- the opportunities afforded us, it will then be too late to prepare for heaven -- AND TOO LATE to become CONCERNED!! Regardless of how concerned we may THEN be, and how many opportunities we may recall that we have rejected (and wish we now had), and how we might yearn for only one -- JUST ONE -- still we must suffer the awful consequence of neglect, indifference, and delay!!

If I am lost, it will be a double loss. I will lose: joy, rest, peace, being with God, Christ, redeemed of all ages. I will suffer: misery, despair, weeping, wailing, darkness. This loss is irreparable and the suffering eternal. (Matt. 8:11-12) And it will be my own fault. Jesus said, "WHOSOEVER WILL." (Rev. 22:17)

The National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Georgia reports that a rise in food poisoning caused by staphylococci is expected this summer.

In 1968 this type of food poisoning was the most commonly reported, and accounted for nearly 25 per cent of all outbreaks in the U. S. It generally originates from unclean hands. Therefore, everyone handling food -- in restaurants, schools, camps, on picnics, and at home -- should keep hands as germ-free as possible by washing them thoroughly and often, preferably with an antibacterial skin cleanser such as pHisoHex.

Other recommendations include using clean, adequately rinsed untensils rather than hands to handle food, and never working with food when you have an infected cut or other hand wound.

Ann Landers Suicidally Inclined Needs To Be Needed

Dear Ann Landers: I read with special interest your column on suicide. You said individuals who have suicidal pattern develop them early in life and if a person is bent on destroying himself, he will do so and nobody can stop him.

I wish I could say you are wrong, but I can't. I do believe, however, that you could have added something to your answer. Please tell your readers that an alert and perceptive friend, relative or doctor might be able to help a self-destructive individual decide that he WANTS to live.

I speak from experience, as one who attempted suicide twice. After the first attempt, a nurse (who should have been doing something else for a living) told me I was merely trying to get attention. This so infuriated me that I was determined to kill myself and prove her wrong. I realize now how sick I was and how twisted was my reasoning.

No person will take his life if he feels he is really needed. This was my problem and it still is, to a large extent.

There are times when I feel hopelessly inadequate and I scream at my husband that I am a burden, that I'm not fit to live. He screams back, "I love you! I need you!" until I am quiet. Then he holds me in his arms and gives me the reassurance I need. If someone I love said he wanted to kill himself I would take him in my arms (oh, the miraculous healing qualities of a tender touch) and tell him I love and that I need him. Then I would go to the phone and call the best psychiatrist in town. ---- Still Fighting

Dear Still: You are half way home. You'll make it, I am certain. Please write again six months from today. I'd like a progress report.

Dear Ann: Stop telling parents they should make their kids take music lessons no matter how much they hate to practice. My mother made me despise the piano because of her nagging. Now I wouldn't go across the street to hear Horowitz.

They called me the "Little Leasebreaker." Two sets of neighbors moved out of the building on account of me. One neighbor told me she had a headache for six months straight. I said I was sorry but my mother paid me ten cents an hour to practice and it was my only source of income. She said, "I'll give you fifteen cents an hour if you don't."

I'm a father now with three kids of my own. None of them is musically inclined and I don't push it. If we want music we turn on the hi-fi. --- Peace

Dear Peace: And who do you think plays the music you hear on the hi-fi? Musicians who practiced, that's who!

Dear Ann Landers: I'm getting married soon and my mother and I are having a fuss over the invitations. Mom plans to have engraved on the bottom, "Please omit gift. We want their present, not your presents."

I say it would be in poor taste. No etiquette book mentions this. Can you advise us? --- Wrecksville

Dear W: I hope your mother will see it your way. No reference to gifts should appear on an invitation.

Alcohol is no shortcut to social sccess. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts. Read "Booze and You -- For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Hearnes will begin the qualifying round in the 12th annual Kennett four-ball golf tournament. Trophies and prizes worth $2,500 are at stake for the 120 teams that will compete in the final round of the 36-hole event on Sunday.

Hearnes has entered the event the past several years. Billings was asked by a reporter what Hearnes handicap was he replied: "He's the governor."

Administrative personal of the Missouri and Pennsylvania State High School Activities Associations, gave praising reports on the basketball rule which restrict coaches to the bench except in certain situations.

Jack Miles, assistant director of the Missouri High School Activities Association, told officials at a national convention in Las Vegas, Nev. that a new bench restricting rule in his state had resulted in better basketball coaching and fewer technical fouls.

Miles addressed the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations, and said, "A coach can be just like a cheerleader. When he excitedly jumps from the bench, the crowd takes the cue."

The two states adopted the rule last season.

Missouri next season will allow coaches to leave the bench to congratulate players, go to the scorer's table, or get a substitute along with the other exceptions allowed this past season.

Nasty Old Bird

A wild turkey gobbler has been visiting the tame turkeys of a St. Clair county farmer. First he whips the tame tom, then he takes the tame hens off to the woods for who knows - what - all evil purposes.

Some of the hens, reports Allen Breshears, conservation agent for St. Clair county, have not returned to the farm. The wild tom probably is out there gobbling extravagant promises in their ears, offering them all the acorns they can eat and a roost in the dead pine penthouse.

Stars

BATTING - Julian Javier, Cardinals, rapped a two-run double and a two-run homer, his fifth, as St. Louis drubbed Philadelphia 9-3.

PITCHING - Juan Marichal, Giants, stopped Los Angeles 3-0 on three hits - only one after the second inning - for his 12th victory in 15 decisions and eighth consecutive complete game.

McCovey Tops Stars; Cardinals Left Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie McCovey, San Francisco home run slugger, topped the National League All-Star poll released today and newcomers Felix Millan of Atlanta and Cleon Jones of the New York Mets made the starting line-up as first time selectees.

McCovey, the Giants' first baseman, narrowly edged Hank Aaron, Atlanta's right fielder, 296-295 for the most votes cast in the annual balloting of players, coaches and managers.

The vote, announced by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, determined the eight starters (pitchers excluded) who will face the American League July 22 at Washington. The Nationals have won six in a row and hold a 2117 edge in the series.

Managers Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cards and Mayo Smith of the Detroit Tigers, the 1968 World Series rivals, will select the pitchers and other members of the 28-man squads to be announced in the next 10 days. Starters, except pitchers, must play at least the first three innings.

Millan's victory over Glenn Beckert, the highly regarded second baseman of the Chicago Cubs, was one of the most interesting developments. It was the closest contest on the ticket with Millan, making the squad for the second time, beating Beckert 137-110.

In the only other close competition, the Cubs were the winners when Ron Santo took third base over the challenge of Tony Perez of Cincinnati, 196-151.

Don Kessinger, the Cubs' shortstop, joined McCovey, Aaron and Santo as repeaters from 1968 by outdistancing Denis Menke of Houston 228-103.

Johnny Bench, Cincinnati's fine catcher, won in a breeze over Randy Hundley of the Cubs, 261-76. Only four catchers received votes and there were none for Jerry Grote of the Mets, the 1968 starter.

Matty Alou, Pittsburgh center fielder who leads the majors in hits, was voted into the starting outfield with Aaron, named for the 15th time and fifth straight as a starter, and the Mets' Jones, who is the league's leading hitter.

McCovey was a big winner at first base with 296 votes to 33 for runnerup Lee May of Cincinnati.

The top three outfielders were Aaron 295, Alou 232, and Jones 152. Next best was Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, a four-time batting champ, with 56, followed by Cincinnati's Pete Rose, the 1968 batting king, with 53.

Willie Mays of the Giants, who holds a host of All-Star records, ranked sixth among the outfielders with only 49 votes but he undoubtedly will be picked to the team by Manager Schoendienst. It was Mays, in the unlikely role of a sub for ailing Pete Rose, who was the Most Valuable Player in last year's 1-0 National League win at Houston.

The starters were evenly divided between divisions with four from the East and four from the West. Chicago and Atlanta each had two starters and Cincinnati, San Francisco, New York and Pittsburgh one each. A total of 40 players received votes with Menke getting 103 at short and 19 at second base.

Every Cincinnati starter, except the shortstop, received votes.

It comes with 2 tops.
Where's the second top?
Step inside. Sit down. And look up. There it is.
Under the outside top.
It's an inside top that covers the bottom of the outside top.
So you don't see any braces or crossbars. All you see is a nice leatherette ceiling.
Exactly like you do in a sedan.
Our convertible roof even sounds like a sedan roof. It's insulated. With a thick layer of padding. To cushion sound. And keep cold air out.
No water or drafts can get inside our outside top, either. It's waterproof vinyl. And fits on tighter than most convertible tops.
Even the rear window's not what you expect in a convertible. It's real glass. (Not plastic.)
So you see, the Volkswagen is one of the few convertibles that's really convertible.
Just put up the roof and it turns into a sedan.

A Lifeguards Work Is More Than Swimming and Dangling Feet In Water

A lifeguard spends the day dangling his feet from a lofty chair, browning in suntan lotion and developing his bulging muscles in heroic rescues. This popular conception of a lifeguard is a misconception at the Sikeston Jaycee Pool. A crew of 12 lifeguards arrives at the pool at nine o'clock and begins a busy day that includes very little relaxing in the sun and flirting with attractive swimmers. Yesterday nine guards started the day by cleaning.

"Come on, quit standing and around and let's soap down the deck," Miss Mary Ann Sappenfield yelled. A few guards grabbed brooms and squeegies and ran up the stairs from the dressing rooms to the pool. Other guards collected tin cans and papers left around the pool, and two boys tested the water and added chemicals. A few ants in the dressing room did not bother Miss Jackie Sisk's cleaning. "They're so small, I don't worry about them." she said.

Rescues at the Jaycee pool are not uncommon, though. The guards mark off sections of the pool and closely watch the swimmers in their own sections. They are still talking about the difficult rescue of a 200-pound man a few weeks ago. "He went off the diving board to learn to swim and he went right to the bottom," Kenny Dickson said.

Most of the guards do not keep a count of the number of swimmers they pull in. "For the first year, I counted the people I saved," Mike Gallagher said, "but then I lost count." The Sikeston guards average about two rescues a week.

"Not everybody realizes there is a lot to being a lifeguard," Miss Lynn Tenkhoff said. "We have to be chaffuers, babysitters, nurses, janitors, plumbers – and lifeguards."

DIRTY STAIRS get a daily sweeping. Today Miss Mary Ann Sappenfield takes the broom duty.

Basler Startup Delayed But Training Continuing

from the charleston
daily standard bureau

CHARLESTON — The expected July 15 building occupancy, and start up of production lines by the Basler Electric Co., has been delayed due to inclement weather that prevented completion of the building, David Brauns, plant manager, revealed today.

Brauns said that additional personnel ahd been added to the training course, so as to be ready to expedite production once occupancy is available, somewhere between August 15 and September 1. The outside perimiter of the building, of steel construction, has been completed.

"I wouldn't want to go out on a limb and predict any certain starting date," Braun said.

He is being assisted in training the new personnel by Allen Wellen, from the home plant at Highland, Illinois.

Braun said that "to date, some 7,150 transformers had been shipped on orders, all the work being done from the training line. We're making progress on the training line," he added.

"Greek Fire"

One of the first and most effective of all incendiary mixtures was Greek fire, invented in A.D. 670. It contained petroleum and a combination of other flammable materials, and was used as late as the Civil War by Confederate agents in the North in a bottled form and by Union troops in artillery shells, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Dunklin County Grand Jury Returns 11 Indictments

MALDEN - The Dunklin County Grand Jury submitted their final report July 1 in Dunklin County Circuit Court, along with a return of 11 new indictments, nine of which were supressed by the court until the defendants indicted are taken into custody.

Two of the indictments returned were against Stanley Daniel Latham and Jerry Lee Cluck, of Malden, both serving a sentence in the Missouri penitentiary for felonious stealing. The jury's indictments against the two men charged that Latham allegedly stole a record player and three pairs of shoe skates from Melvin Blake of Malden on July 24, 1968 and on the same date, Cluck allegedly stole a shot gun, fan and other miscellaneous items from Joe Moore of Malden. Bonds of $10,000 were set for each of the defendants. The remaining nine indictments were suppressed pending the time the person indicted are taken into custody.

Grand Jury Foreman Taylor Miles presented the final report of the jurors to Circuit Judge William H. Billings. During the Grand Jury session, called on February 11, the jury met 26 times, heard 141 witnesses and returned a total of 18 indictments.

The Grand Jury was called by Judge Billings to determine whether prosecution should proceed against particular persons and to indict and bring to trial persons believed to have violated the laws of this state. Secondly, the jury was instructed to protect and exonerate citizens from unfounded accusations either from officials or prompted by partisan passion or private enmity. The jury also made a comprehensive report and study on various activities, conditions and matters affecting the welfare of the county.

The Grand Jury reported on the following 21 areas: property assessments; supervision of county levee districts; supervision of county drainage districts; safety measures required by railroads; the practice of law by judges, clerks or deputy clerks; options dealing with violations and regulations of commission merchants; use of cigarettes by minors; game and fish law violations; gambling and gaming devices including slot machine violations; willful misconduct by public officials in office; examination of county buildings; juvenile delinquency; sale and use of illegal drugs; classification and disposition by category of 1967-1968 arrests; county contracts affecting public properties; acts of violence resulting in jury or death; and investigation of all character and grades of crime and township government.

In general, the Grand Jury found Dunklin County a good place to live and rear a family. The report stated: "It might be expected that this (report) would be a negative one, with evidence of numerous things found wrong. As simply a group of citizens from many geographical areas and a variety of occupations with no prior training in law or enforcement, we believe that Dunklin County in general is in excellent condition."

The Grand Jury recommended a grand jury probe to keep the county in good condition, to the convened not less than two years and not later than four.

Judge Billings commended the jurors on their efforts and investigation, on behalf of the court and the citizens of the county. After briefly reviewing the report, Judge Billings complimented the jurors by saying "I have seen two or three areas in which you have laid important groundwork which will be beneficial to all citizens." He stated that at a later date the court will appoint a citizens' advisory committee.

"Some will say that you didn't go deeper into some areas of study, and I ask you to remind such people that it was the duty of every person in the county to point out any areas in which they saw fit to see an investigation, and to inform the Grand Jury," Billings told the jurors.

Property assessments, election law violations, liquor law violations, the condition of the county farm and county courthouse, delinquent personal taxes; insufficient railroad warning lights and gates; and investigation into dismissed cases in 1967 and 1968 by the prosecuting attorney were among the areas that the Grand Jury found most needed changes and immediate corrective action.

Serendipity is the faculty of making happy and unexpected discoveries by accident. The word was coined by Horace Walpole, who based it on an old fairy tale, "The Three Princes of Serendip." They had the faculty of always making discoveries of things for which they were not searching.

No Sign of Food Prices Leveling off

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rising cost of food, already having a painful impact on the nation's consumer, is still going up and the government says there is no sign of any leveling off.

Agriculture Department economist Stephen J. Hiemstra made the grim assessment after it was disclosed Tuesday that wholesale food prices jumped another 1.2 per cent during June.

And when wholesale prices go up, the cost for puting food on the average citizen's table follows right up the spiral, Hiemstra indicated.

"There's not anything that we can see to indicate a drop or a leveling off" he said.

Due entirely to the jump in food costs, the government's Wholesale Price Index climbed four-tenths of one per cent in June to 113.2.

Continuing to lead the way in the rising food prices is the cost of meat, particularly beef.

Hiemstra said currently high farm prices for beef, the most popular meat, are expected to continue their momentum for most of the summer at least.

The Labor Department said Tuesday wholesale prices for processed meat, poultry and fish jumped 4.5 per cent in June, leading all other food items.

Calling meat a significant factor in consumer food spending, Hiemstra said that it accounts for 25 to 30 per cent of the average grocery bill.

Consumers as an average spend about 17.2 cents of their take-home dollar on food.

Retail meat prices have been rising steadily while livestock prices paid farmers have gone up over the months. The wholesale price of livestock went up 6 per cent in June, said the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Despite efforts of the Nixon administration to discourage inflation, the impact of the food price spiral is more than obvious to the consumer.

As an example, the January index for beef and pork was 118.6 which means consumers paid $11.86 for meat which cost $10 in the 1957-59 period upon which the index is based. In May the same meat cost $12.34.

"But food is not leading the pack," Hiemstra said. "So far this year food has averaged about 4 per cent above a year ago in the January-May period, while other consumer items have increased more ... approaching 6 per cent."

NEW YORK (AP) — The Artists' Theatre Festival, in residence at Southampton College, has accepted an invitation to appear at the Dublin International Theatre Festival. The theater company will present "The Immortal Husband," by James Merrill, and "In the Summer House," by Jane Bowles, at the Gate Theatre, Dublin, Ireland, Oct. 6-13.

This used car is guaranteed 100%.

Introducing a used car guarantee without any "you pay half, we pay half" nonsense.

Most used car dealers sell their cars with 50-50 guarantees. You know the deal: if anything goes wrong, you pay half the cost of parts and labor.

Well, our guarantee doesn't work that way. When we guarantee a car we guarantee the repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1000 miles. No charge for parts. Labor, Anything.

(We don't give our cars a guarantee until all the things that need fixing get fixed.)

It saves us - and you - time and money in the long run.

A $1,000 Lesson

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — When golf pro Bert Yancey spoke at the qualifying school conducted here this spring by the PGA tournament players' division one of the students called it "a $1,000 lesson."

Yancey, who won $67,000 on the 1968 tour, talked about maintaining a psychological advantage, how to prepare mentally for a tournament and how to keep your cool on the course.

"When you hit a good shot, don't get over-excited," said Yancey. "Anyone who gets excited over a good shot is going to get excited over a bad shot. That's when it will hurt your game.

"When you see a man hit a great shot and stand there looking at it and does nothing but take a deep breath, then you know when he hits a bad shot he's not going to lose his temper."

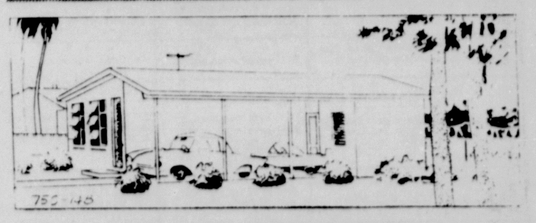
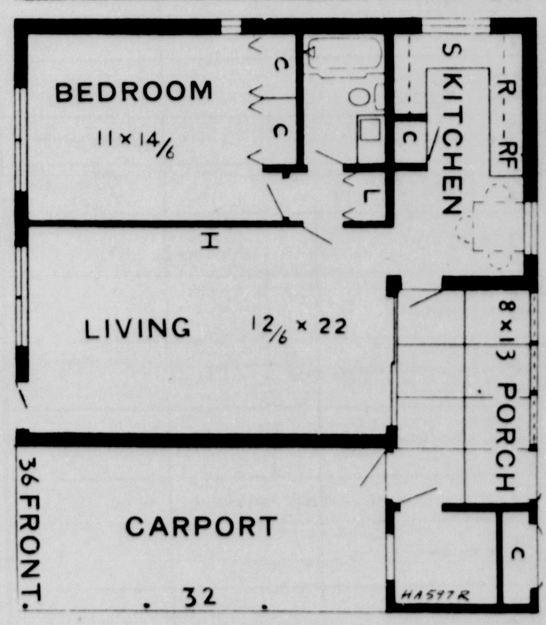
HOMES FOR AMERICANS





THIS COMPACT HOUSE was designed for a narrow lot where neighbors are likely to be very close. Consequently there are no major windows in side walls. For greatest economy of construction, all plumbing lines are grouped around one spot. The bathroom is back to back to the kitchen. The living room appears larger than it is because of the glass areas at both ends. The carport is deep enough to house a compact car plus small boat. Architect for Plan HA597R is Jan Reiner, 1000 52nd Street North, St. Petersburg, Fla.

MONEY MAGIC

DAR ES SALAAM (AP) — Two northern Tanzania men, said to have burned 320 pounds in banknotes after claiming they could double the money by magic, have been cleared of charges of obtaining the money by fraud.

John Bosco, 28, and Barari Athman, 54, were said to have gotten the money from three men who watched Bosco apparently burn banknotes and then pull double the amount from the ashes.

Bosco was said to have wrapped the men's money, placed it in a basin and apparently burned it. Nothing was left but ashes, the plaintiffs said.

The judge dismissed the charges because the victims did not report the matter for a month, and because no ashes had been produced in court. These could have been examined, the judge said, to determine whether they were from banknotes.

If You Were the Judge

Can't Collect for Name on Panties

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Bern, a fairly well known tennis player, lost a match by a score which he considered unmentionable. But at the time he didn't know how unmentionable it was going to be.

For Sam, a manufacturer of ladies' lingerie, got the brilliant idea of using a printed fabric, containing among other items the newspaper account of Bern's loss, for panties. When the story of Bern's tennis loss began appearing in unmentionable places, Bern sued Sam for libel and invasion of privacy.

"It was bad enough that I was defeated in the match," complained Bern in court, "without having my name preserved for posterity on the posterior of members of the opposite sex."

"The whole thing is silly," was Sam's unconcerned reaction. "Who reads what's on a girl's panties? If you want to find a name, you look in a telephone book."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make Sam pay for linking Bern so intimately with members of the opposite sex?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that since the items in the newspaper were true, Bern was not libeled. And since the idea of newsprint on a fabric was the important feature of the panties, as well as the insignificant stories they contained, there was no invasion of privacy.

State Fiscal Mess Far From Untangled

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The picture of a fiscal mess is emerging as the experts dig into the figures of revenue and appropriation bills passed by the 1969 Legislature in the final frantic days.

Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersvulle, the calm veteran who is chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, warned his colleagues repeatedly they would wind up with a worse financial crisis staring them in the face next January than they faced this session.

On the final night, when the Senate was passing tax collection speedup bills in hurry up style, Patterson said they would enable the state to operate without a deficit "for one year - maybe."

The acceleration bills provide only a one - shot windfall. Without passage of recurring revenue in sizeable amounts, Patterson and all the fiscal experts said, the Legislature would be faced with the necessity of passing new taxes quickly when it comes back for its budget session next year.

Next year is an election year - a poor time to be voting for higher taxes.

Summaries of the figures are still incomplete, partly because the bills in their final form have not yet been printed. Enough is known now to make it virtually certain the 1970 session will start with the necessity of raising something in the neighborhood of $70 million in a hurry to avoid a deficit.

John C. Vaughn, state comptroller and budget director, and Arthur W. Betts, the legislative fiscal affairs officer, and their staffs are working on the figures now. They see nothing but trouble ahead.

Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D, Hillsboro, the iron fisted Senate President Pro Tem, said right to the last the revenue in sight would be enough to finance government operations for the next two years. The figures compiled so far do not bear him out.

For one thing, an income tax acceleration bill failed to pass the House. It would have provided an estimated $10 million.

There is also some uncertainty whether the ones that did pass will raise the amount of money that was talked about in the Legislature. Instead of $57 million the fiscal experts say the amount is more likely to be around $50 million, if that much.

Part of the trouble comes from the fact that when the program to put collections on a current basis starts operating next year, the tax collection agencies are not sure whether the procedure will work in the time to do any good in the last quarter of fiscal 1969-70.

Legislators and state officials regard it as certain that a test suit will be filed questioning legality of the cigarette tax bill that was to tied to an increase in the formula for state aid to schools.

When that happens, it could interfere with the normal distribution in state aid that comes with the start of the school year in September. Usually this amount is half of the entire year's allotment and it is heavily relied on to pay school operating costs.

If a suit should prevent distribution of the September allotment, that would mean the schools would not get about $117 million in state aid.

Comptroller Vaughn is worried about that because he could not go back and rely on the old state aid formula. That law was repealed when the new formula was set up.

Several veteran seantors fought the idea of tying the cigarette tax to the school aid formula. Blackwell insisted the procedure was entirely legal, but his opponents made certain that the record was clear in the Seante Journal for later court consideration.

Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, predicted even then passage of the bill would result in the biggest lawsuit the state ever saw.

He said the questionable legality of the bill could affect the operations of every school district in he state.

If things turn out that way, it will make the previous marchee on the Capitol during the stormy 1969 session look like a picnic.

BLOUNT NAMED MANAGER

Madrid Farmers Expecting Best Cotton Crop In Years; Beans Planted

BY E. J. MAYS
State Editor

NEW MADRID -- New Madrid County farmers, blessed with an unusual number of hot cotton growing days, augmented by a sufficiency of the proper amount of rainfall, "can expect their best cotton crop in the past four years," according to the County ASC committee.

BULLETIN

Larry Blount, 27, of Lilbourn, who has been with the ASC since 1962, was named as Manager of the New Madrid ASC office today. He succeeds June C. Ransburgh, of Portageville, who resigned effective July 1, after having served as manager since 1956.

Blount, a graduate of SEMO State College at Cape Girardeau, joined the ASC as a reporter in 1962. He has been employed as a performance supervisor for New Madrid County, for the past two years.

NEW MADRID ASC COMMITTEE — Handling the varied duties assigned them as representatives of the New Madrid county Agricultural Stabilization Committee, in an able manner, are his trio of ASC committeemen, including (l to r) Bernard Recker, Portageville; Chairman, William Depro, Matthews and Everett Leirer Gideon.

Speaking for the group, at their annual monthly meeting, Chairman William Depro of Matthews, pointed out the fact that "to date we are not bothered with boll weevil, boll worm - or any other insect problems. All fields are blooming and cotton has almost reached maturity. We really have the best prospects of the past three years and are hopeful of recouping some of the losses, sustained over the past few years," he said.

DIVERSIFIED PROGRAM

Members Bernard Recker of Portageville and Everett Leirer of Gideon, chimed in to point out that "New Madrid County, unlike some Bootheel Counties, does have a most diversified farm program. Only about 25 percent of our farmer's plantings are allocated to cotton," they pointed out. Add the fact that New Madrid County enjoyed a bountiful wheat harvest, along with weather that allowed the wheat fields to be planted with soy beans immediately following their "burn downs"; that the corn crops look the best in years; the strawberry crop, showing an upward trend to around some 70 acres countywise and the dairy, hog and beef cattle growers increase in herds in their reports and the county seems destined for their most prosperous year.

Notices at the ASC of rice show that the loan on soybeans is $2.55 per bushel; the wheat support was at $1.37 for field diverrion; corn support listed at $1.14 per bushel. All cotton, field grain and DA's must be certified by the Tuesday, July 15, deadline, to be eligible for collection of monies.

GOOD STAPLE

The committeemen pointed out that while they did not have a real good cotton crop last year they did have a good staple and we expect this same grade staple on the one and one-sixteenth grading this year.

Seed price is down to $38-$39 per bale from a gin cost of around $1.10 and some gins are expected to refuse to take the "seed exchange based on that amount - this year. Last year many seed swapouts occurred, the members said

Labor problems have arisen at the gins but the farmers, most of whom have to use mechanical pickings -- due to large crops -- aren't worried about the harvesting aspects. Almost all farmers are voluntarily contributing their $1.00 per bale assessment for promotion of cotton by the National Cotton Council, they said. This amount is deducted from the bale payments automatically by the ginner and can be returned only after the grower requests this return. Few have requested the return, the committee revealed.

#2 Cont. from Page 1

Front, predecessor of the provisional revolutionary government, called for elections more than two months ago as part of its 10-point peace plan. The plan was endorsed by North Vietnam.

In President Nixon's eight-point program announced May 14, he called for internationally supervised elections in which "every significant group in South Vietnam" could participate.

Thieu's proposal added a call for establishment of an election commission, with all political factions represented, to assure "equal opportunities in the campaigning to all candidates" and an honest vote count. The president said he was prepared to discuss a timetable for the elections and other details with "the other side."

However, neither Thieu nor Nixon have specified what the elections would decide, and that question may form the basis of a conflict in the Saigon and NLF positions.

In a lengthy statement hailing Thieu's suggestions for a political approach to a settlement, Nixon said:

"If the other side genuinely wants peace, it now has a comprehensive set of offers which permit a fair and reasonable settlement. If it approaches us in this spirit, it will find us reasonable. Hanoi has nothing to gain by waiting."

Nixon noted that at his June 8 Midway Island meeting with Thieu, the two presidents "declared our readiness to accept any political outcome which is arrived at through free elections."

The President described Thieu's proposals as marking "the culmination of a long series of steps by the South Vietnamese and American governments all of which together demonstrate clearly the sincere desire of our two governments to negotiate an honorable and rapid settlement of the war."

In saying he and Tieu have declared themselves ready to accept any outcome arrived at through free elections Nixon underlined the word "any."

Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary, said there had been general consultation between Saigon and Washington during the preparation of Thieu's speech inviting the Communists to participate in free elections to be supervised by an international body.

Ziegler said the White House had a full text of Thieu's remarks before they were delivered. He likened the consultation to that which preceded the May 14 television - radio address putting forward an eight- point peace plan.

Group Presents Proposals To Ogilvie

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) -- More than 100 members of Cairo, Ill., and East St. Louis groups, called the United Front, planned to travel to Springfield today to present a series of proposals for resolving problems in troubled Cairo to Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

Charles Koen,, leader of the Cairo United Front was to lead the delegation. The group was to travel in two chartered buses.

Koen outlined the proposals earlier this week at the organizational meeting of the United Front in East St. Louis, when about 60 persons attended.

Koen said Ogilvie would be asked to declare Cairo a disaster area and bring the forces of government to hear on obtaining industry for the city and its people for jobs.

Both black and white leaders agree that depressed economic conditions in the city of 8,000 at the extreme southern tip of southern Illinois aggravate its racial problems.

National Guardsmen have been called on twice since July 1967 to put down arson, shooting incidents and disorders in Cairo. State police have been in Cairo in force this summer to help local police maintain order.

Koen said Ogilvie also will be asked to assign a special judge to Cairo to hear cases involving Negroes, support a jury selection system assuring that Negroes willbe "fairly represented" and designate a special assistant attorney general to serve in Cairo indefinitely.

Mississippi River Breaks Levee South of Commerce

COMMERCE — About 12,000 acres of prime soybean crops two miles south of here on Big Island went under water last night when the last of two restraining levees gave way to churning waters of the Mississippi River.

The levee broke about 8:30 p.m. and farmers, and volunteers worked more than six hours removing farm equipment to higher ground.

Farmers had worked throughout the week sandbagging the levee, which can adequately restrain water up to 36 feet in depth. The levee gave way when the water reached 37 feet and the river is expected to reach 38 feet before subsiding.

This is the first year since before 1960 the levee has been broken, but it is the second time this year. The levee broke earlier in the spring and destroyed a lesser amount of acreage of early planted crops. A volunteer, one of about 10 assisting farmers, said it is highly unusual for the water to break through this late in the year.

The break- through point was the same as earlier in the spring. Roy "Red" Proctor, Benton, aid the water cut through soft dirt that was placed in the levee following the spring flood.

Scott County Sheriff John Dennis, who was in charge of equipment evacuation, said it is impossible to determine the amount of losses. A farmer, whose land was included, said most of the lost crops had potential of producing 35 to 40 bushels per acre.

Thirteen farmers were named as having crops in the flooded region. They include Charles Beardsley, Charley Michael, Hershel Gillipine, Paul Hitt, Bob McVey, Elmer Poorman, Hays Laster, Larry and Bill Hopper, Herbert Berger, Lawrence Glause, Jimmy Johnson and Bud Wright.

There was a small amount of corn, lost, in addition to the soybeans.

Only one family lives in the area, but the water is not expected to reach the house. It is expected to make the home inacessible, however. A rescue worker said he believed all major pieces of farm equipment were removed before damaged.

Governor's Advisory Council Meets Here

Sixteen of a nineteen member board of the Governor's Advisory Council of Agriculture from every section of Missouri, voiced their opinions concerning better farming, at the Holiday Inn, Thursday.

It was the first meeting of the council held outstate, and gave members an opportunity to learn of the bootheel farming practices.

The next meeting has been set for Springfield.

Leading the discussion was agriculture commissioner Dexter Davis, Wendell Choate, Charleston, welcomed the group to this area. Choate pointed out to the members that this section had faired well in that there were by few flooding acres in the entire area, but that a small section still lacked moisture.

The entire rural legislative report was reviewed, and showed that most of bills died on the legislative calendar, failed to be brought up due to the numerous tax legislation that filled the agenda.

Sen. Nelson Tinnin, Hornersville, discussed the food stamp program, that would permit the department of welfare to be placed in charge, whereby persons could choose between the stamps to serve as cash for groceries and other items, or continue under the free commodity program. The program would be started in 25 counties at the be-outset. The bill will be brought before the next legislature, and has the backing of the agriculture council. Tinnin commented, "what bothers me was the holdup of many of the bills, with only 281 measures being passed in the entire session."

Dr. Norman Brown, head of the Delta Area Agriculture experimental station, Portageville, was the noon speaker. He said that for many years cotton had been the most important crop, "but today all sections of the nation can now grow equal qulity, and that the crop would have to be grown cheaper. The soybean crop was advanced in past few years, and made it possible to have a two - crop season by following wheat with the beans.

Tinnin added, "If we can develop a barley crop of high quality for malt, it would be boom for the farmer. We also have the sugar beet that may be a coming crop for a good number of acres."

He said there are 300 acres of Sugar Beets in experiment, and if the Great Western Sugar Beet company could get an allotment for more growing, it would bring, 30,000 acres to this acrea.

Vegetable crops are gaining, and with the land and the knowhow this area could produce vegetables for a fast growing national population. Brown said, "it must be remembered that the farming program can change greatly with he Noranda plant in the area, that would affect our labor rates.

A discussion was held on the hog cholera, showing that there were 54 oubreaks in the state. A 30-day quarentine is in effect, and would continue until July 21. A recommendation was made that all feeder pigs be tagged, all boar pigs castrated, and not moved from the farm, and that concrete floor used in all production.

Benton O'Neil, St. Joseph spoke on the money rates, when he said, "there is but one money lender in the state, and the most funds would be from New York. Every borrower would be subsidized up to 2 and one-half per cent, and he would not encourage young men to enter farming. Business and incorporations can obtain enough money, but farming would be handicapped at the high interest rates.

Commissioner Davis explained, "I've never seen anything like in the country, where we have full employment, with runaway inflation.

Since farm land values are down, there is not much agriculture can do, and there is

Thieu Calls For Free Elections

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu today proposed free elections to settle the Vietnam war, saying the Viet Cong can participate if they pledge to renounce violence and abide by the results of balloting. He called for international supervision to insure "conditions fair to all."

President Nixon said today the new peace proposals by President Thieu "should open the way at last for a rapid settlement" of the Vietnam war - if the Communists will begin serious negotiations.

There was no immediate reaction to the proposal from parties at the Paris peace talks. But observers said it was unlikely to end the stalemate at the negotiating table since Hanoi and the Viet Cong's provisional revolutionary government insist the United States must withdraw all its troops and the Thieu regime must step down as the first steps to end the war.

With Thieu's proposal, made in a radio address, all four major parties to the war have called for a ballot-box settlement.

NEW MADRID -- A coroner's jury deliberated five minutes here this morning before handing down a "justifiable homicide" ruling in connection with the Wednesday night slaying of Robert Eugene Reed, 23, Parma.

Reed, who had been stopped for speeding in Parma, was wounded fatally after attacking City Marshall Hollis "Doc" Lindley, the State Highway Patrol reported.

At this morning's inquest, Lindley said Reed began fighting for the officer's gun after getting into the patrol car. Lindley said Reed hit him on the right side of his head. Lindley reached down to the floor of the car and procured a .38 pistol with his left hand.

Lindley testified he fired the pistol at Reed, but thought he fired higher than he did. The bullet entered Reed beneath the left shoulder, and traveled to a point near the heart.

Reed died enroute to a Memphis, Tenn., hospital.

Reeds wife, Edna Mae, 26, and a sister, Mollie Reed, 16, were passengers in the car when the arrest was made. His wife said she was walking from their car to the officer's car when she heard the shot fired. Miss Reed said she was in the stopped car when the shot was fired. They both appeared to testify this morning in shorts. Reeds sister was barefooted.

The coroner, Gene Glayton, presided over the inquest that lasted from 10 a.m. until about 11:10 a.m. Parma City Attorney Harold D. Jones represented Lindley.

Jurors were Jimmie Edwards, Jim Cravens, Wilson Phillips, Howard Chrisler, Raymond Howard and J. D. Dowd.

Sikeston Guards Complete Two Construction Projects

By JERRY OBERMARK

FT. LEONARD WOOD -- The Sikeston unit of the Missouri Army National Guard - Company C, 1140th Engineer Battalion as it is known in military terminology -- will complete two major construction projects during its two-week summer encampment, which ends today. The unit will return to Sikeston Saturday.

Company C drills in Sikeston, but is composed of two Portageville platoons, each with about 30 men, and two Sikeston platoons, also, composed of about 30 men.

The men of the Sikeston platoons engaged in a bridge repair project during the encampment. They removed the rotten wood decking and treadway of the unused bridge on the fort; replaced the decking and treadway with new wood, and painted the piling for the bridge. The unit also cleared brush and trees for 100 meters on each side of the 60 foot bridge site and made it a usable, sound bridge again. Lt. Jerry Lathum, Matthews, a bookkeeper for Gulf Chemicals Co. in Sikeston, was the project officer.

Lt. Lathum worked the men no longer than 30 minutes at a time because of the extreme heat and the nature of the work. Work crews, usually consisting of 30 men at the bridge site, worked 30 minutes then took a 15-minute break.

There is little doubt that he accomplished more from his men by working them in this manner, one man at the project site commented. The intense heat during the encampment would have caused heat stroke or heat exhaustion, if he had not given the men the frequent breaks.

The men seemed to respond well to the treatment. Their project was among the first completed of the units attending summer camp this year.

Permanent Army personnel stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood commented favorably on the bridge repair. Two officers inspected the site Tuesday morning and complimented Lt. Lathum's men for their outstanding work.

The two platoons from Portageville in C Company cut a swath 1½ miles long through heavily wooded hinterland on the fort to build a "crash road." The road will be used mainly as an access road to rescue plane crash survivors. It is located about one mile north of the fort air runway in the area where planes both take off and approach the air strip.

Lt. Robert Little, a State Highway Patrolman who lives in Hayti, is the project officer of the crash road. Initial work of planning the road route to be sliced out of the woods was completed by the U. S. Forestry Service, before the unit arrived at summer camp. The work crews began the road construction by matching chain saws and axes against the hardwood. Bulldozers were then used to remove the stumps, and road graders began plowing a path for the roadbed. Then, gravel was hauled in by the tons and spread for the roadway. Grubbing - the removal of roots from the roadway and adjoining shoulders - was among the last of the cleanup operations for the road construction.

The road was not compacted to the extent necessary for making a good road for everyday use. Time would not allow this. But it will serve as a good artery to a previously inaccessible area in the event of a plane crash.

Officers viewing the work of Company C were impressed with the quality of the work, especially considering the unit was an infantry unit until it was reorganized in January, 1968, and retraining unit started. The company commander is Captain M. B. Thomas III of Sikeston.

Recovery Inc. Has Four Homes Ready

Four houses developed by Recovery, Inc. are ready for occupancy pending FHA approval which will be received early next week, city manager Raymert Miller said at 7:30 p.m. yesterday at a Sikeston Recovery, Inc. meeting in the City Administration Bldg.

"The inspector was here today, and Recovery may expect approval on the four houses Monday or Tuesday," Charles Mitchell, Recovery member said. The houses already have purchasers and are part of the organization's efforts to construct low- cost housing in Sikeston.

The board voted to allow occupancy of the houses at 314, 316, 212 Alabama St. and 320 Dixie St. on a rental basis, at the same amount as the loan payment, until the FHA loan is closed.

Approval for plans of project Turnkey III, for 69 low-cost housing units will be received within three weeks, Billy Hanna, Sikeston housing director, said. The single - family units will have payments based on 20 to 25 per cent of the family income, equity will be built up, and after 25 years, the family will own the home.

"Construction could be started this fall, but because of bad weather it may be early spring," Hanna said. After approval for the project is received, Recovery will advertise for developers' bids, plans will be forwarded to Ft. Worth, and construction will begin.

"The program Turnkey III, is a good deal, but the people must understand the terms of the contract, Richard James, Recovery member, said. A meeting to explain increasing payments as income increases will be held after the program is approved, for those who have signed up for Turnkey III. Recovery should clarify that payments on the houses will be a percentage of income, but cannot increase above a maximum level, Louis Wiggins said. When the income increases to a certain point determined by federal Housing and Urban Development, financing of the house will be the responsibility of the purchaser.

"There are six additional lots we can start construction on providing we can get plans going," Raymert Miller said. Miller suggested surveys be made on six lots, as a result of the June 19 FHA confirmation of a request for 10 housing units, not a part of Turnkey III. Miller suggested authorizing Buckmiller, Whitworth and Foust, local architects, to draw up the plans for the 10 low-rent housing units, with payment when Recovery, Inc. can meet them.

Dr. Spock's Conviction Thrown out

BOSTON (AP)) The 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals reversed today the convictions of Dr. Benjamin Spock and three other men found guilty last year of conspiring to counsel young men to avoid the draft.

The court freed Spock and one of the other three-Harvard graduate student Michael Ferber- from further prosecution.

But it ordered retrials for the Rev. William Sloane Coffin Jr., chaplain at Yale University, and Mitchell Goodman, an author and teacher from Temple, Maine.

The four were among five tried before a U.S. District Court jury here. The fifth defendant, Marcus Raskin of Washington, was acquitted.

The appeals court held that the conviction of Spock and the three others was not consistent with the 1st Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which guarantees free speech.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
WHAT IS WELFARE?

Throughout the years since the very beginning of the exploration of the New World, this has been the land of opportunity. Early history is filled with early explorers' tales of streets paved with gold and the wealth that would reward any daring adventurer willing to migrate to the virgin land.

Over the decades since, millions of people have followed the ocean paths in search of the fulfillment of the promised dream. Some have made it, more in fact than ever before in the history of man. Others have not.

The American is, despite many shortcomings, a generous individual. He has learned that he has an unwritten obligation to his neighbor to help when needed. If another man is unable to care for himself why shouldn't he share in the abundance? If a man is unable temporarily to provide for his family's needs others will help him with the necessities until he is able to return to the work force. This is as it should be. We are a capitalist society. Each of us profits by the labor of others. What one produces another consumes. What is consumed is paid for with earnings received for productivity. The more men employed, the larger the market. Aid to the incapacitated is welfare. It is not demeaning. It is our way of proving to the world that we take care of our own. Aid to the temporarily unemployed is welfare. It, too, is not of itself degrading but a way of showing confidence in our system. It is an investment in the recipient's future, and should provide enough to prevent hunger or misery, without encouraging permanent unemployment.

When welfare provides a means of remaining unemployed, the time has come for Americans to have a careful look at exactly how much welfare can be dispensed without threatening their future.

CLEANING THE NEWSSTANDS

Recent public opinion polls bear out a long-time conviction of ours: The majority of the American adults do not favor newsstand sales of obscene literature.

We recognize the difficulty of defining what is, or is not, obscene. It is true that there are people who would classify certain sections of the Bible as objectionable. A nude painting or statue may be found morally offensive by a particular individual. Recently, Virginia Representative Joel Broyhill strongly criticized the District of Columbia's summer program agency for presenting a performance by African dancers for the District's youth. His protest was leveled at the topless native costumes. Some might forgive this show as an art form. It's a matter of personal opinion.

Many objectionable things exist that may provoke us: movies, books, magazines that depict blatant immorality. But we do not say that these should be outlawed on the basis of personal judgment. If an adult wishes to view such movies or read material of that sort, it is his own affair. Our concern lies with the exposure of these exhibits to young, immature minds.

It is possible that the reason for the opposition of so many people to newsstand display of offensive literature is its easy accessibility to the young. Some of the magazines we have seen don't even have to be opened to be offensive, the cover photos are descriptive enough to convey their message.

It is up to magazine distributors, publishers and newsstand operators to police themselves. We wouldn't want to see the government move into the picture. Too often government interference leads to too much control and only makes the situation worse. But if the powers in the industry fail to act, the public may demand legislation and the fault will rest with the industry for its inertia.

INCOME MAINTENANCE AHEAD

President Richard M. Nixon's broad welfare reform proposals are expected to go to Congress sometime during the week of June 16.

The Parodox of an explosion of relief rolls in the midst of plenty of bugging domestic policy experts of the Nixon administration. The historic ratio between employment and relief -- as one goes up the other is supposed to go down -- is all out of joint.

The unemployment rate in May was 3.5 per cent of the labor force, for a total of 2.5 million. Unemployment is around its lowest point since the Korean War. But relief rolls had reached a total of 9,030,000 persons in January this year, with total payments of $900,848,000 in that month. As recently as September 1966 the total number of recipients was 7,853,400.

The bulk of welfare last January was accounted for by Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), with 1,544,000 families. This breaks down to 6,215,000 persons, of which 4,646,000 were children. AFDC payments in January came to $266,707,000.

Against this background the Nixon administration has been working out its program of welfare reforms. Almost certainly the new system will call for federal financing of minimum monthly payments of $30 to $40 per person.

The President's income maintenance scheme, Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare Robert H. Finch said on June 4, stems from a report made early in January by a Nixon task force. Headed by Richard P. Nathan, now assistant Director of the Budget Bureau, it urged a federal monthly minimum relief payment.

The administration program will represent an attempt to bring order out of the present hodge-podge of public assistance programs that are unpopular with both taxpayers and recipients. AFDC, assistance for the disabled, and old-age assistance vary widely because of joint federal-state participation. New York State already has had to cut back its share of welfare payments drastically, and other states are running low on funds.

AFDC benefits for a dependent child now range from $8.50 a month in Mississippi to $71.48 in New York. A federal floor on welfare payments would shorten the range.

Presumably, the Nixon program will have the federal government subsidize the income of fathers who hold jobs at low pay. The idea at first blush sounds odd coming from a Republican administration. But the National Commission on Technology, Automation, and Economic Progress in 1966 recommended that "economic security be guaranteed by a floor under family income."

Moreover, the commission, whose 14 members included industrialists, labor leaders, and welfare workers, observed that "concrete proposals for such an income allowance program" had been advanced by a number of authorities. It cited as examples three economists, Milton Friedman of the University of Chicago, Robert Lampman of the University of Wisconsin, and James Tobin of Yale. Friedman had been economic adviser to Barry Goldwater during the latter's campaign for the Presidency in 1964.

The Republican platform in 1968 pledged: "We will modify the rigid welfare requirements that stifle work motivation." Richard Nixon in his campaign last year spoke against the so-called negative income tax advocated by Prof. Friedman. But any income guarantee will be a step in that direction.

THE STUPID GOAT

A commuting writer for the News-Sun, Kendallville, Indiana, writes what he sees along the road to and from his work:

". . .we've noticed a white angora billy goat with his head through the fence beside the road. He seems to be waiting patiently for help to extricate him because his horns turn back and he's caught like a fish in a gill net. He must really relish that lush grass just beyond the fence and he seems to be confident that someone will help him out. The episode struck us as being so parallel to the situation of we Americans today . . . We (so) love that lushness just beyond what comes by the sweat of our brows that we've been tempted beyond our freedom and we lose it until the man comes along to help us out . . . What would happen if that farmer got tired of loosening the stupid goat, or got sick, or involved elsewhere?"

When we expect government to solve all our problems for us and guarantee our security from the cradle to the grave, we are indeed acting like the stupid goat.

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you caught in the summer doldrums?

Many people are. They have come down with the hot weather blues. Life seems stale, routine and dull, too humdrum to be stood.

"Nothing seems worth doing," they say.

That's nonsense. There always are a number of things worth doing. If nothing else, you can write down a list of fairly odd daydreams and try to make a few of them come true.

For example, you might—

Take a correspondence course in sky writing.

Get a part-time job as a human fly.

Count the contents of a can of peas.

Become the donor for the first human freckle transplant.

Listen for the crack of doom.

Sing a bawdy song at your next PTA meeting.

Beat City Hall.

Adopt a baby dolphin and keep it in your bathtub.

Champ at a bit.

Paste your own portrait among the photos of the "ten most wanted criminals" in your local post office and see how long it is before you're caught.

Take a ride through a sewer in a glass-bottomed boat.

Run away from home with your baby sitter's mother.

Learn Esperanto.

Go on a diet of hard tack.

Write a new old folk song.

Try to whistle Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata."

Memorize a poem by Allen Ginsberg backwards.

Peel a watermelon.

Write a long fan letter to the lonely old guy nobody remembers in midsummer—Santa Claus.

Try to teach an old dog at least one new trick.

Tattoo your wife.

Go down in the basement and see if you can make a batch of home brew as good as your grandpop made during prohibition.

Play like you've got $10 million, and then compose a long last will and testament in which you disinherit everybody.

Find a wonder drug that will cure all the ailments that other wonder drugs now cause.

As a last resort, you can get rid of your summer boredom—and surprise everybody in your office—by buckling down and doing an honest day's work. That, of course, is an extreme measure and one not to be tried except with the advice and consent of your physician.

Bad News for Crooks

Americans spent more than $2½ billion on their law enforcement departments last year. Even in this inflated age, that's a lot of money, and since neither crime nor traffic nor any other area promises to get smaller, the cost can only go higher.

Because it is such big business and important business, "It is only logical that our cities will be running these operations with all the tools now utilized routinely by large corporations," predicts one expert.

According to Prof. William Hewitt, senior law enforcement consultant for Cybernetics Development Inc., of Englewood, N.J., between 65 and 86 per cent of the nation's law enforcement agencies will soon turn to computer-based information and electronic crime prevention systems.

CDI is one of a number of companies which do not manufacturer computers but specialize in their application to different fields. In law enforcement this involves advising, training and working with local police and justice personnel through the whole range of their activities – from departmental organization and administration to recruitment to patrol beats to traffic studies to court and prison operation.

One of the most provocoative uses of electronic law enforcement is in the study of crime patterns in any given area by day of the week and hour of the day. With their "electronic auxiliary," police have frequently been able to predict the occurrence of an attempted crime to its exact location and time.

Single (Minded) Girl and Sex

In one of the most widely quoted statements in recent days, Clare Boothe Luce averred that life was chancy for the young women of today. Young men just don't want to get married any more, and the only answer to that, she said, is for the girls to be "supersexy."

"Fortunately for woman, her body is still a trap – if no longer a baby trap, a man trap.

The accomplished Mrs. Luce, who is an outstanding example of felicitous combination of both beauty and brains, hasn't been reading the right statistics.

The annual number of marriages in the United States has been increasing without interruption since 1958. In the past seven years, the increase has amounted to 32 per cent. (In the same period the birth rate has steadily declined, so she is right about the baby trap part of it.)

In 1968, more than two million marriages took place, the highest of any year except the immediate post war year of 1946, when everybody was a little wacky.

True, the number of marriage-eligible people has also been increasing but there has been no appreciable change in the percentage of spinsters or bachelors.

No mere male will complain if Mrs. Luce helps launcha trend to "supersexiness," even if it does lead to more marriages – although the statistics show the girls must already be doing something right. But the trouble is that too often the bait is removed after the man trap is sprung.

Therein lies the story behind many of the 400,000 divorces in this country every year, and behind possibly a far greater number of unsatisfactory marriages which don't deteriorate as far as divorce."

Like a diamond, sexiness (it doesn't even have to be "super") ought to be forever.

DIVIDENDS FOR THE FUTURE

Quite frequently refugees from nations where the people are subjected to political oppression quickly become loyal supporters of the U.S. system of government and private enterprise. Another source of support has now been reported, which is encouraging.

About 12 per cent of Peace Corps volunteers returning to this country head straight for business. It is said that their experience with American business firms in underdeveloped nations of the world has impressed them favorably. These volunteers end up wanting very much to be part of such organizations, and they are coming back to go into banking, into manufacturing, into technical services training. According to the report, the Peace Corps is now feeding into industry and business about as many recruits as there are students with business majors graduating from American colleges.

The Peace Corps, in the opinion of many, has been one of the more worthy programs. Its members have helped promote international understanding and the well-being of underdeveloped areas. The fact that they return to the U.S. with a greater appreciation of its institutions is a dividend that may have a telling effect on the future of our nation.

H.L. Hunt Says

"HISTORY IS DULL!"

Mr. Sherman Edwards, a former history teacher, jazz pianist and composer has made good use of his talents. He is the prime reason hat the current smash hit on Broadway, "1776," is such a success.

One of the biggest hits ever to be on Broadway, "1776" has won the Tony Award and the Drama Critics Award as the season's best musical and is still considered a "hot ticket" with long lines at the box office. National touring groups and Movie companies are bidding for rights to present the patriotic show.

Broadway, however, is not noted for its support of patriotic productions. Mr. Edwards tells of many producers refusing to even consider the show because "history is duil." As a matter of fact, the musical leans away from the standard "smashes" of Broadway since it contains patriotic subject matter, its sex interest in minimal, it hasn't got a big star in the cast but instead depicts American history, in Mr. Edward's words, with "affectionate accuracy."

Edwards also points out that with the great success of the show at the box office, a goodly percentage of the audiences has been school children. He spares no punches in his remarks about history books for school: "Well, history isn't dull, though maybe the way it's taught is."

This is just onene more example of the current trend to the Right. A rash of other historical shows, even some with numerical titles, are being considered for production. Edwards, himself, has plans for more and hopefully as good shows along the same lines as "1776." Patriots should strike while the iron is hot and not let the turn to the Right diminish. Letters of support to this and any other patriotic endeavor can cause the turn to grown even larger; and this is something one person can do in behalf of Freedom.

TIME TO BE CONSTRUCTIVE

The June 17th primaries disclosed the greatest change in political philosophy since Freedom and Americanism began their fatal trip "down the drain" in 1930. A candidate who was unexpectedly defeated in an upset complained, "The Republican Party has been destroyed by conservatives."

He did not try to charge that it was destroyed by turning "too constructive." "Conservative" is not nearly as fitting for a fine political philosophy as "Constructive," and it is to be hoped that the winners of some of this balloting will not seek to destroy but to build and are truly "Constructives."

To be Constructive is to be for honor, liberty, truth and all of so many parts that, when combined, mean freedom. Nothing is easier than to be against something and while we should combat crime and subversiveness, we should do this in a Constructive manner. Freedomists are very much in the majority and the truth is always on the Freedom side.

Some patriots thought they detected a turn to the Right in 1967. Now with these Freedom-side victories, the turn has become a stampede. Seasoned anti-communists who have stuck to their guns over the last few years have been vindicated.

This realization of the dream of patriots of a "turn to the Right" is now a dream come true. A golden opportunity has opened for everyone who loves our Republic and hopes for it a long and useful life. In order to support and expand this dream, patriots should rally behind patriotic news media and business advertising. Freedom is most dependent on the press and the press is most dependent on business advertising.

Love of country is not dead and people in the U.S. are tired of crime, demonstrations and gun-barrel demands. The majority may have finally overcome the most selfish minorities. HLH

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson say: Republican bankers desert Nixon in favor of bank lobbyists; many congressmen voting with bankers lobby own bank stock; bankers have been taking over Pizza Parlors, TV and Radio stations

WASHINGTON--A group of lobbyists representing the biggest banks in the country sat in the house banking and currency committee as chairman Wright Patman of Texarkana, Tex., marked up the new bank-holding bills.

The lobbyists included Jack Yingling of the First National City Bank of New York; John Holton of the American Bankers Association; Matt Hale of the ABA; Don Rogers of the Association of Registered Bank Holding Companies; and Robert Oliver of Sperry and Hutchinson, Inc., the S and H Green Stamp Company, together with three executives of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, biggest bank in North Carolina.

The Lobbyists watched every vote that was taken on every item in the bank bill. And when the committee was finished, they were able to telephone their banking bossies back home that they had scored an amazing victory. Every Republican congressman on the committee deserted the Nixon administration to give the bankers exactly what they wanted.

Five democrats also deserted their chairman, Rep. Patman, to vote with the bankers.

Significantly, half of the congressmen who deserted Nixon and Patman to line up with the bankers were either stockholders or directors in banks themselves.

At issue was the question of whether banks can go into business in competition with their own customers. This is a real advantage to banks which have set up non-banking enterprises such as department stores, insurance agencies, furniture and carpet factories, TV and radio stations, trading stamps and even Pizza Parlors.

--Plugging Loopholes--

Under this system which Patman and the treasury department sought to change, a bank can lend money at lower interest rates to its own department store or Pizza Parlor, as against a higher interest rate to a competitor. Or it can require a borrower to go down the street and do business with a subsidiary owned by the bank.

What Rep. Patman and the Nixon administration sought to plug was a loophole in the 1956 multi-bank holding company act which permits single banks to own commercial enterprises. For a good many years only small country banks took advantage of this. But 18 months ago the big banks spotted this loophole and there has been a stampede to take advantage of it.

Among the foremost of these has been the First National City Bank of New York, whose lobbyist, Jack Yingling, watched the house banking and currency committee last week.

Thirty-four of the 100 largest banks in the nation have either formed or announced their intention of establishing holding companies in the last 18 months. They are already in 100 different types of businesses.

The Patman bill, aimed at divorcing banks from competitive business, was a clearcut attempt to plug the loophole in the 1956 law and even tighten it. The Treasury Department Bill, not as strong as the Patman Bill, contained a grandfather clause whereby banks which has subsidiary business firms prior to June 30, 1968, could retain them.

However, neither bill survived the high-pressure tactics of the banking lobbyists. They had persuaded Rep. William Widnall, New Jersey Republican and friend of the bankers, to introduce the kind of bill they wanted which, among other things, permitted the banks to hold on to travel agencies, Pizza Parlors, Radio and TV stations land all other forms of business which they had acquired up until four months ago--Feb. 17, 1969.

--Watching The Congressmen--

The Wachovia Bank of Winston-Salem has been active just prior to lthat time, especially in acquiring insurance agents. It has also gone into the computer business. Its subsidiaries were formed on Dec. 31, 1967.

The man whom the Wachovia executives were watching during the markup of the bill was the Greek-American Congressman from Durham, N.C., Nick Galifianakis, who defeated the grandson of R.J. Reynolds. In that election Galifianakis played up the fact that he was the son of an immigrant running against a scion of big business. But on this key vote Galifianakis went down the line for big business.

Joining him were the following democrats: Robert Stephens, Ga., who owns stock in the First National Bank of Athens, Ga., Tom Gettys, S.C. Trustee of an estate with stock in the Rock Hill National Bank of Rock Hill, S.C.; together with Bevill, Ala., and Charles Griffin, Miss.

Every Republican on the committee joined in supporting the bankers against the Nixon Administration Bill. Bank stockholders or directors among the Republicans included William Brock, Tenn., connected with the Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga and Knoxville; Chester Mize, Kans., stockholders in a bank holding company; William Stanton, Ohio, connected with the Lake County National Bank; Del Clawson, Calif., connected with the home bank of Compton; J. Glenn Beall, Jr., Md., director of The First National Bank and Trust Company of Baltimore; and Albert Johnson, Pa., who stated in committee meeting that he is a bank director.

Note: Several democrats who own bank stock, including henry reuss, Wis., Tom Rees, Calif., Richard Hanna, Calif., and Lenore Sullivan, Mo., voted with chairman Patman for a No-compromise bank bill.

The Gospel Visitor

By: REEDUS M. BAUGHER

The greatest words, on man's behalf, to pass the lips of Christ, was when He said: "For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." (Luke 19:10) Even though Jesus came to earth for the purpose of seeking and saving, lost man; many will be lost when He comes to judge the world. (2 Cor. 5:10) Matt. 7:21) And this is not because of any deficiency in the Saviour, but rather, a failure on man's part to come to Jesus Christ, in His appointed way. (Matt. 11:28-30)

To be lost is something for which none of us wish, and is also something that we all plan NOT to do, and yet there will be multitudes who have had intentions for good in life, who will not be saved -- will be LOST FOREVER !! Too often we can see the danger in others neglecting their salvation, and often seek to justify our actions by what someone else has done, or hasn't done. But, this will not be our greatest concern when we meet the Lord, the Great Judge of all the earth, face to face. Our greatest concern at that time will be self -- have I done the will of God to the best of MY ability? Even though others will be lost, we shall not then be comparing ourselves to them. We will then be facing the FACTS -- about ourselves and truth. For MY salvation depends upon what I have or have not done with my opportunities to obey God. And we will then realize what really counts is whether or not I have done the will of God as written in His word. - - Not have I followed my opinions, the precepts of men, or my feelings. Neither will we be concerned about have I done as much, or more, than someone else; or have I been as good, or better, than another. Such is not the standard then to be used, and by which I should have been preparing myself all along.

When we stand before the judgment bar of God to answer for the deeds done in the body -- how we have either used or abused -- the opportunities afforded us, it will then be too late to prepare for heaven -- AND TOO LATE to become CONCERNED!! Regardless of how concerned we may THEN be, and how many opportunities we may recall that we have rejected (and wish we now had), and how we might yearn for only one -- JUST ONE -- still we must suffer the awful consequence of neglect, indifference, and delay!!

If I am lost, it will be a double loss. I will lose: joy, rest, peace, being with God, Christ, redeemed of all ages. I will suffer: misery, despair, weeping, wailing, darkness.This loss is irreparable and the suffering eternal. (Matt. 8:11-12) And it will be my own fault. Jesus said, "WHOSOEVER WILL." (Rev. 22:17)

SEW IT in an afternoon, swing with it all summer. Miss Phyllis Ford made her sports set from cotton.

Summer Fun With Sewing

Pick a swatch of cotton, cue it to your wardrobe, and stitch up a cool outfit to see you through those swinging hot weeks of summer. Miss Phyllis Ford, a 1969 SHS graduate and winner of the "Outstanding Homemaker" award, did just that. She made a shorts set from two yards of aqua cotton, that cost 99 cents a yard. It took Miss Ford about two hours from cutting board to hand-work to finish the perky outfit. She added a designer's touch to the Simplicity pattern by attaching a strip of tucked trim down the blouse front.

She will also receive other prizes, including clothing, and will reign over all primary functions of the Mid-South Fair, September soc filler watch out for food poisoning 1-3-24i rosie

The National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Georgia reports that a rise in food poisoning caused by staphylococci is expected this summer.

In 1968 this type of food poisoning was the most commonly reported, and accounted for nearly 25 per cent of all outbreaks in the U. S. It generally originates from unclean hands. Therefore, everyone handling food -- in restaurants, schools, camps, on picnics, and at home -- should keep hands as germ-free as possible by washing them thoroughly and often, preferably with an antibacterial skin cleanser such as pHisoHex.

Other recommendations include using clean, adequately rinsed untensils rather than hands to handle food, and never working with food when you have an infected cut or other hand wound.

Suicidally Inclined Needs To Be Needed

Dear Ann Landers: I read with special interest your column on suicide. You said individuals who have suicidal pattern develop them early in life and if a person is bent on destroying himself, he will do so and nobody can stop him.

I wish I could say you are wrong, but I can't. I do believe, however, that you could have added something to your answer. Please tell your readers that an alert and perceptive friend, relative or doctor might be able to help a self-destructive individual decide that he WANTS to live.

I speak from experience, as one who attempted suicide twice. After the first attempt, a nurse (who should have been doing something else for a living) told me I was merely trying to get attention. This so infuriated me that I was determined to kill myself and prove her wrong. I realize now how sick I was and how twisted was my reasoning.

No person will take his life if he feels he is really needed. This was my problem and it still is, to a large extent.

There are times when I feel hopelessly inadequate and I scream at my husband that I am a burden, that I'm not fit to live. He screams back, "I love you! I need you!" until I am quiet. Then he holds me in his arms and gives me the reassurance I need. If someone I love said he wanted to kill himself I would take him in my arms (oh, the miraculous healing qualities of a tender touch) and tell him I love and that I need him. Then I would go to the phone and call the best psychiatrist in town. ---- Still Fighting

Dear Still: You are half way home. You'll make it, I am certain. Please write again six months from today. I'd like a progress report.

Dear Ann: Stop telling parents they should make their kids take music lessons no matter how much they hate to practice. My mother made me despise the piano because of her nagging. Now I wouldn't go across the street to hear Horowitz.

They called me the "Little Leasebreaker." Two sets of neighbors moved out of the building on account of me. One neighbor told me she had a headache for six months straight. I said I was sorry but my mother paid me ten cents an hour to practice and it was my only source of income. She said, "I'll give you fifteen cents an hour if you don't."

I'm a father now with three kids of my own. None of them is musically inclined and I don't push it. If we want music we turn on the hi-fi. -- Peace

Dear Peace: And who do you think plays the music you hear on the hi-fi? Musicians who practiced, that's who!

Dear Ann Landers: I'm getting married soon and my mother and I are having a fuss over the invitations. Mom plans to have engraved on the bottom, "Please omit gift. We want their present, not your presents."

I say it would be in poor taste. No etiquette book mentions this. Can you advise us? --- Wrecksville

Dear W: I hope your mother will see it your way. No reference to gifts should appear on an invitation.

Alcohol is no shortcut to social secess. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts. Read "Booze and You -- For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Administrative personal of the Missouri and Pennsylvania State High School Activities Associations, gave praising reports on the basketball rule which restrict coaches to the bench except in certain situations.

Jack Miles, assistant director of the Missouri High School Activities Association, told officials at a national convention in Las Vegas, Nev. that a new bench restricting rule in his state had resulted in better basketball coaching and fewer technical fouls.

Miles addressed the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations, and said, "A coach can be just like a cheerleader. When he excitedly jumps from the bench, the crowd takes the cue."

The two states adopted the rule last season.

Missouri next season will allow coaches to leave the bench to congratulate players, go to the scorer's table, or get a substitute along with the other exceptions allowed this past season.

McCovey Tops Stars; Cardinals Left Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie McCovey, San Francisco home run slugger, topped the National League All-Star poll released today and newcomers Felix Millan of Atlanta and Cleon Jones of the New York Mets made the starting line-up as first time selectees.

McCovey, the Giants' first baseman, narrowly edged Hank Aaron, Atlanta's right fielder, 296-295 for the most votes cast in the annual balloting of players, coaches and managers.

The vote, announced by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, determined the eight starters (pitchers excluded) who will face the American League July 22 at Washington. The Nationals have won six in a row and hold a 2117 edge in the series.

Managers Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cards and Mayo Smith of the Detroit Tigers, the 1968 World Series rivals, will select the pitchers and other members of the 28-man squads to be announced in the next 10 days. Starters, except pitchers, must play at least the first three innings.

Millan's victory over Glenn Beckert, the highly regarded second baseman of the Chicago Cubs, was one of the most interesting developments. It was the closest contest on the ticket with Millan, making the squad for the second time, beating Beckert 137-110.

In the only other close competition, the Cubs were the winners when Ron Santo took third base over the challenge of Tony Perez of Cincinnati, 196-151.

Don Kessinger, the Cubs' shortstop, joined McCovey, Aaron and Santo as repeaters from 1968 by outdistancing Denis Menke of Houston 228-103.

Johnny Bench, Cincinnati's fine catcher, won in a breeze over Randy Hundley of the Cubs, 261-76. Only four catchers received votes and there were none for Jerry Grote of the Mets, the 1968 starter.

Matty Alou, Pittsburgh center fielder who leads the majors in hits, was voted into the starting outfield with Aaron, named for the 15th time and fifth straight as a starter, and the Mets' Jones, who is the league's leading hitter.

McCovey was a big winner at first base with 296 votes to 33 for runnerup Lee May of Cincinnati.

The top three outfielders were Aaron 295, Alou 232, and Jones 152. Next best was Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, a four-time batting champ, with 56, followed by Cincinnati's Pete Rose, the 1968 batting king, with 53.

Willie Mays of the Giants, who holds a host of All-Star records, ranked sixth among the outfielders with only 49 votes but he undoubtedly will be picked to the team by Manager Schoendienst. It was Mays, in the unlikely role of a sub for ailing Pete Rose, who was the Most Valuable Player in last year's 1-0 National League win at Houston.

The starters were evenly divided between divisions with four from the East and four from the West. Chicago and Atlanta each had two starters and Cincinnati, San Francisco, New York and Pittsburgh one each. A total of 40 players received votes with Menke getting 103 at short and 19 at second base.

Every Cincinnati starter, except the shortstop, received votes.

Nasty Old Bird

OSCEOLA — He's just an unruly savage, that's what he is! Nasty old bird!

A wild turkey gobbler has been visiting the tame turkeys of a St. Clair county farmer. First he whips the tame tom, then he takes the tame hens off to the woods for who knows - what - all evil purposes.

Some of the hens, reports Allen Breshears, conservation agent for St. Clair county, have not returned to the farm. The wild tom probably is out there gobbling extravagant promises in their ears, offering them all the acorns they can eat and a roost in the dead pine penthouse.

It comes with 2 tops.
Where's the second top?
Step inside. Sit down. And look up.
There it is.
Under the outside top.
It's an inside top that covers the bottom of the outside top.
So you don't see any braces or cross-bars. All you see is a nice leatherette ceiling.
Exactly like you do in a sedan.
Our convertible roof even sounds like a sedan roof. It's insulated. With a thick layer of padding. To cushion sound. And keep cold air out.
No water or drafts can get inside our outside top, either. It's waterproof vinyl. And fits on tighter than most convertible tops.
Even the rear window's not what you expect in a convertible. It's real glass. (Not plastic.)
So you see, the Volkswagen is one of the few convertibles that's really convertible.
Just put up the roof and it turns into a sedan.

A Lifeguards Work Is More Than Swimming and Dangling Feet In Water

A lifeguard spends the day dangling his feet from a lofty chair, browning in suntan lotion and developing his bulging muscles in heroic rescues. This popular conception of a lifeguard is a misconception at the Sikeston Jaycee Pool. A crew of 12 lifeguards arrives at the pool at nine o'clock and begins a busy day that includes very little relaxing in the sun and flirting with attractive swimmers. Yesterday nine guards started the day by cleaning.

"Come on, quit standing and around and let's soap down the deck," Miss Mary Ann Sappenfield yelled. A few guards grabbed brooms and squeegies and ran up the stairs from the dressing rooms to the pool. Other guards collected tin cans and papers left around the pool, and two boys tested the water and added chemicals. A few ants in the dressing room did not bother Miss Jackie Sisk's cleaning. "They're so small, I don't worry about them." she said.

Rescues at the Jaycee pool are not uncommon, though. The guards mark off sections of the pool and closely watch the swimmers in their own sections. They are still talking about the difficult rescue of a 200-pound man a few weeks ago. "He went off the diving board to learn to swim and he went right to the bottom," Kenny Dickson said.

Most of the guards do not keep a count of the number of swimmers they pull in. "For the first year, I counted the people I saved," Mike Gallagher said, "but then I lost count." The Sikeston guards average about two rescues a week.

"Not everybody realizes there is a lot to being a lifeguard," Miss Lynn Tenkhoff said. "We have to be chaffuers, babysitters, nurses, janitors, plumbers – and lifeguards."

A 100-POUND sack of soda ash breaks as Mike Gallagher (left) and Ron Humphries lift it from the storage room to put into the pool.

DIRTY STAIRS get a daily sweeping. Today Miss Mary Ann Sappenfield takes the broom duty.

Basler Startup Delayed But Training Continuing

from the charleston
daily standard bureau

CHARLESTON — The expected July 15 building occupancy, and start up of production lines by the Basler Electric Co., has been delayed due to inclement weather that prevented completion of the building, David Brauns, plant manager, revealed today.

Brauns said that additional personnel ahd been added to the training course, so as to be ready to expedite production once occupancy is available, somewhere between August 15 and September 1. The outside perimiter of the building, of steel construction, has been completed.

"I wouldn't want to go out on a limb and predict any certain starting date," Braun said.

He is being assisted in training the new personnel by Allen Wellen, from the home plant at Highland, Illinois.

Braun said that "to date, some 7,150 transformers had been shipped on orders, all the work being done from the training line. We're making progress on the training line," he added.

"Greek Fire"

One of the first and most effective of all incendiary mixtures was Greek fire, invented in A.D. 670. It contained petroleum and a combination of other flammable materials, and was used as late as the Civil War by Confederate agents in the North in a bottled form and by Union troops in artillery shells, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Dunklin County Grand Jury Returns 11 Indictments

MALDEN - The Dunklin County Grand Jury submitted their final report July 1 in Dunklin County Circuit Court, along with a return of 11 new indictments, nine of which were supressed by the court until the defendants indicted are taken into custody.

Two of the indictments returned were against Stanley Daniel Latham and Jerry Lee Cluck, of Malden, both serving a sentence in the Missouri penitentiary for felonious stealing. The jury's indictments against the two men charged that Latham allegedly stole a record player and three pairs of shoe skates from Melvin Blake of Malden on July 24, 1968 and on the same date, Cluck allegedly stole a shot gun, fan and other miscellaneous items from Joe Moore of Malden. Bonds of $10,000 were set for each of the defendants. The remaining nine indictments were suppressed pending the time the person indicted are taken into custody.

Grand Jury Foreman Taylor Miles presented the final report of the jurors to Circuit Judge William H. Billings. During the Grand Jury session, called on February 11, the jury met 26 times, heard 141 witnesses and returned a total of 18 indictments.

The Grand Jury was called by Judge Billings to determine whether prosecution should proceed against particular persons and to indict and bring to trial persons believed to have violated the laws of this state. Secondly, the jury was instructed to protect and exonerate citizens from unfounded accusations either from officials or prompted by partisan passion or private enmity. The jury also made a comprehensive report and study on various activities, conditions and matters affecting the welfare of the county.

The Grand Jury reported on the following 21 areas: property assessments; supervision of county levee districts; supervision of county drainage districts; safety measures required by railroads; the practice of law by judges, clerks or deputy clerks; options dealing with violations and regulations of commission merchants; use of cigarettes by minors; game and fish law violations; gambling and gaming devices including slot machine violations; willful misconduct by public officials in office; examination of county buildings; juvenile delinquency; sale and use of illegal drugs; classification and disposition by category of 1967-1968 arrests; county contracts affecting public properties; acts of violence resulting in jury or death; and investigation of all character and grades of crime and township government.

In general, the Grand Jury found Dunklin County a good place to live and rear a family. The report stated: "It might be expected that this (report) would be a negative one, with evidence of numerous things found wrong. As simply a group of citizens from many geographical areas and a variety of occupations with no prior training in law or enforcement, we believe that Dunklin County in general is in excellent condition."

The Grand Jury recommended a grand jury probe to keep the county in good condition, to the convened not less than two years and not later than four.

Judge Billings commended the jurors on their efforts and investigation, on behalf of the court and the citizens of the county. After briefly reviewing the report, Judge Billings complimented the jurors by saying "I have seen two or three areas in which you have laid important groundwork which will be beneficial to all citizens." He stated that at a later date the court will appoint a citizens' advisory committee.

"Some will say that you didn't go deeper into some areas of study, and I ask you to remind such people that it was the duty of every person in the county to point out any areas in which they saw fit to see an investigation, and to inform the Grand Jury," Billings told the jurors.

Property assessments, election law violations, liquor law violations, the condition of the county farm and county courthouse, delinquent personal taxes; insufficient railroad warning lights and gates; and investigation into dismissed cases in 1967 and 1968 by the prosecuting attorney were among the areas that the Grand Jury found most needed changes and immediate corrective action.

Serendipity is the faculty of making happy and unexpected discoveries by accident. The word was coined by Horace Walpole, who based it on an old fairy tale, "The Three Princes of Serendip." They had the faculty of always making discoveries of things for which they were not searching.

No Sign of Food Prices Leveling off

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rising cost of food, already having a painful impact on the nation's consumer, is still going up and the government says there is no sign of any leveling off.

Agriculture Department economist Stephen J. Hiemstra made the grim assessment after it was disclosed Tuesday that wholesale food prices jumped another 1.2 per cent during June.

And when wholesale prices go up, the cost for puting food on the average citizen's table follows right up the spiral, Hiemstra indicated.

"There's not anything that we can see to indicate a drop or a leveling off" he said.

Due entirely to the jump in food costs, the government's Wholesale Price Index climbed four-tenths of one per cent in June to 113.2.

Continuing to lead the way in the rising food prices is the cost of meat, particularly beef.

Hiemstra said currently high farm prices for beef, the most popular meat, are expected to continue their momentum for most of the summer at least.

The Labor Department said Tuesday wholesale prices for processed meat, poultry and fish jumped 4.5 per cent in June, leading all other food items.

Calling meat a significant factor in consumer food spending, Hiemstra said that it accounts for 25 to 30 per cent of the average grocery bill.

Consumers as an average spend about 17.2 cents of their take-home dollar on food.

Retail meat prices have been rising steadily while livestock prices paid farmers have gone up over the months. The wholesale price of livestock went up 6 per cent in June, said the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Despite efforts of the Nixon administration to discourage inflation, the impact of the food price spiral is more than obvious to the consumer.

As an example, the January index for beef and pork was 118.6 which means consumers paid $11.86 for meat which cost $10 in the 1957-59 period upon which the index is based. In May the same meat cost $12.34.

"But food is not leading the pack," Hiemstra said. "So far this year food has averaged about 4 per cent above a year ago in the January-May period, while other consumer items have increased more ... approaching 6 per cent."

NEW YORK (AP) — The Artists' Theatre Festival, in residence at Southampton College, has accepted an invitation to appear at the Dublin International Theatre Festival. The theater company will present "The Immortal Husband," by James Merrill, and "In the Summer House," by Jane Bowles, at the Gate Theatre, Dublin, Ireland, Oct. 6-13.

This used car is guaranteed 100%.

Introducing a used car guarantee without any "you pay half, we pay half" nonsense.

Most used car dealers sell their cars with 50-50 guarantees. You know the deal: if anything goes wrong, you pay half the cost of parts and labor.

Well, our guarantee doesn't work that way. When we guarantee a car we guarantee the repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1000 miles. No charge for parts. Labor, Anything.

(We don't give our cars a guarantee until all the things that need fixing get fixed.)

It saves us - and you - time and money in the long run.

A $1,000 Lesson

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — When golf pro Bert Yancey spoke at the qualifying school conducted here this spring by the PGA tournament players' division one of the students called it "a $1,000 lesson."

Yancey, who won $67,000 on the 1968 tour, talked about maintaining a psychological advantage, how to prepare mentally for a tournament and how to keep your cool on the course.

"When you hit a good shot, don't get over-excited," said Yancey. "Anyone who gets excited over a good shot is going to get excited over a bad shot. That's when it will hurt your game.

"When you see a man hit a great shot and stand there looking at it and does nothing but take a deep breath, then you know when he hits a bad shot he's not going to lose his temper."

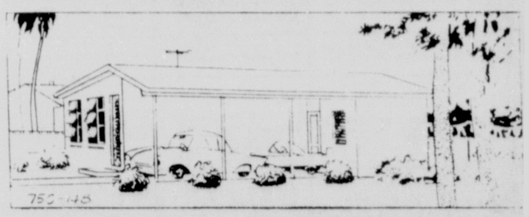
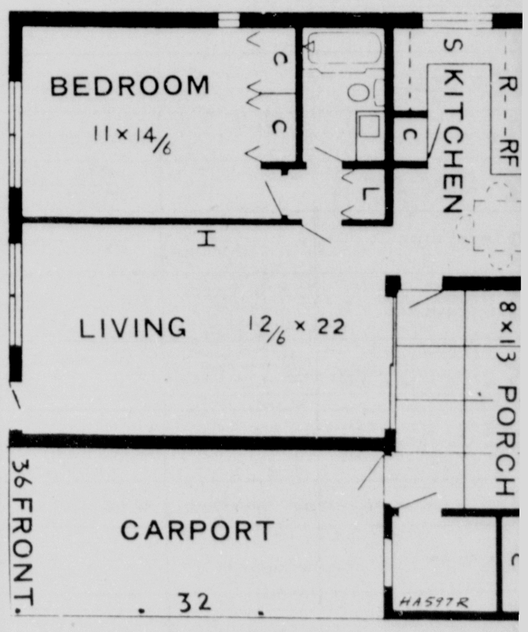
HOMES FOR AMERICANS





THIS COMPACT HOUSE was designed for a narrow lot where neighbors are likely to be very close. Consequently there are no major windows in side walls. For greatest economy of construction, plumbing lines are grouped around one spot. The bathroom is back to back to the kitchen. The living room appears larger than it because of the glass areas at both ends. The carport is deep enough to house a compact car plus small boat. MONEY MAGIC

DAR ES SALAAM (AP) — Two northern Tanzania men, said to have burned 320 pounds in banknotes after claiming they could double the money by magic, have been cleared of charges of obtaining the money by fraud.

John Bosco, 28, and Barari Athman, 54, were said to have gotten the money from three men who watched Bosco apparently burn banknotes and then pull double the amount from the ashes.

Bosco was said to have wrapped the men's money, placed it in a basin and apparently burned it. Nothing was left but ashes, the plaintiffs said.

The judge dismissed the charges because the victims did not report the matter for a month, and because no ashes had been produced in court. These could have been examined, the judge said, to determine whether they were from banknotes.

If You Were the Judge

Can't Collect for Name on Panties

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Bern, a fairly well known tennis player, lost a match by a score which he considered unmentionable. But at the time he didn't know how unmentionable it was going to be.

For Sam, a manufacturer of ladies' lingerie, got the brilliant idea of using a printed fabric, containing among other items the newspaper account of Bern's loss, for panties. When the story of Bern's tennis loss began appearing in unmentionable places, Bern sued Sam for libel and invasion of privacy.

"It was bad enough that I was defeated in the match," complained Bern in court, "without having my name preserved for posterity on the posterior of members of the opposite sex."

"The whole thing is silly," was Sam's unconcerned reaction. "Who reads what's on a girl's panties? If you want to find a name, you look in a telephone book."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make Sam pay for linking Bern so intimately with members of the opposite sex?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that since the items in the newspaper were true, Bern was not libeled. And since the idea of newsprint on a fabric was the important feature of the panties, as well as the insignificant stories they contained, there was no invasion of privacy.

State Fiscal Mess Far From Untangled

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The picture of a fiscal mess is emerging as the experts dig into the figures of revenue and appropriation bills passed by the 1969 Legislature in the final frantic days.

Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersvulle, the calm veteran who is chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, warned his colleagues repeatedly they would wind up with a worse financial crisis staring them in the face next January than they faced this session.

On the final night, when the Senate was passing tax collection speedup bills in hurry up style, Patterson said they would enable the state to operate without a deficit "for one year - maybe."

The acceleration bills provide only a one - shot windfall. Without passage of recurring revenue in sizeable amounts, Patterson and all the fiscal experts said, the Legislature would be faced with the necessity of passing new taxes quickly when it comes back for its budget session next year.

Next year is an election year - a poor time to be voting for higher taxes.

Summaries of the figures are still incomplete, partly because the bills in their final form have not yet been printed. Enough is known now to make it virtually certain the 1970 session will start with the necessity of raising something in the neighborhood of $70 million in a hurry to avoid a deficit.

John C. Vaughn, state comptroller and budget director, and Arthur W. Betts, the legislative fiscal affairs officer, and their staffs are working on the figures now. They see nothing but trouble ahead.

Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D, Hillsboro, the iron fisted Senate President Pro Tem, said right to the last the revenue in sight would be enough to finance government operations for the next two years. The figures compiled so far do not bear him out.

For one thing, an income tax acceleration bill failed to pass the House. It would have provided an estimated $10 million.

There is also some uncertainty whether the ones that did pass will raise the amount of money that was talked about in the Legislature. Instead of $57 million the fiscal experts say the amount is more likely to be around $50 million, if that much.

Part of the trouble comes from the fact that when the program to put collections on a current basis starts operating next year, the tax collection agencies are not sure whether the procedure will work in the time to do any good in the last quarter of fiscal 1969-70.

Legislators and state officials regard it as certain that a test suit will be filed questioning legality of the cigarette tax bill that was to tied to an increase in the formula for state aid to schools.

When that happens, it could interfere with the normal distribution in state aid that comes with the start of the school year in September. Usually this amount is half of the entire year's allotment and it is heavily relied on to pay school operating costs.

If a suit should prevent distribution of the September allotment, that would mean the schools would not get about $117 million in state aid.

Comptroller Vaughn is worried about that because he could not go back and rely on the old state aid formula. That law was repealed when the new formula was set up.

Several veteran seantors fought the idea of tying the cigarette tax to the school aid formula. Blackwell insisted the procedure was entirely legal, but his opponents made certain that the record was clear in the Seante Journal for later court consideration.

Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, predicted even then passage of the bill would result in the biggest lawsuit the state ever saw.

He said the questionable legality of the bill could affect the operations of every school district in he state.

If things turn out that way, it will make the previous marches on the Capitol during the stormy 1969 session look like a picnic.

BLOUNT NAMED MANAGER

Madrid Farmers Expecting Best Cotton Crop In Years; Beans Planted

BY E. J. MAYS
State Editor

NEW MADRID -- New Madrid County farmers, blessed with an unusual number of hot cotton growing days, augmented by a sufficiency of the proper amount of rainfall, "can expect their best cotton crop in the past four years," according to the County ASC committee.

BULLETIN

Larry Blount, 27, of Lilbourn, who has been with the ASC since 1962, was named as Manager of the New Madrid ASC office today. He succeeds June C. Ransburgh, of Portageville, who resigned effective July 1, after having served as manager since 1956.

Blount, a graduate of SEMO State College at Cape Girardeau, joined the ASC as a reporter in 1962. He has been employed as a performance supervisor for New Madrid County, for the past two years.

Miss Sue Ann Swilley served as manager during the interim.

Speaking for the group, at their annual monthly meeting, Chairman William Depro of Matthews, pointed out the fact that "to date we are not bothered with boll weevil, boll worm - or any other insect problems. All fields are blooming and cotton has almost reached maturity. We really have the best prospects of the past three years and are hopeful of recouping some of the losses, sustained over the past few years," he said.

DIVERSIFIED PROGRAM

Members Bernard Recker of Portageville and Everett Leirer of Gideon, chimed in to point out that "New Madrid County, unlike some Bootheel Counties, does have a most diversified farm program. Only about 25 percent of our farmer's plantings are allocated to cotton," they pointed out. Add the fact that New Madrid County enjoyed a bountiful wheat harvest, along with weather that allowed the wheat fields to be planted with soy beans immediately following their "burn downs"; that the corn crops look the best in years; the strawberry crop, showing an upward trend to around some 70 acres countywise and the dairy, hog and beef cattle growers increase in herds in their reports and the county seems destined for their most prosperous year.

NEW MADRID ASC COMMITTEE — Handling the varied duties assigned them as representatives of the New Madrid county Agricultural Stabilization Committee, in an able manner, are his trio of ASC committeemen, including (l to r) Bernard Recker, Portageville; Chairman, William Depro, Matthews and Everett Leirer Gideon.

Notices at the ASC of rice show that the loan on soybeans is $2.55 per bushel; the wheat support was at $1.37 for field diverrion; corn support listed at $1.14 per bushel. All cotton, field grain and DA's must be certified by the Tuesday, July 15, deadline, to be eligible for collection of monies.

GOOD STAPLE

The committeemen pointed out that while they did not have a real good cotton crop last year they did have a good staple and we expect this same grade staple on the one and one-sixteenth grading this year.

Seed price is down to $38-$39 per bale from a gin cost of around $1.10 and some gins are expected to refuse to take the "seed exchange based on that amount - this year. Last year many seed swapouts occurred, the members said

Labor problems have arisen at the gins but the farmers, most of whom have to use mechanical pickings -- due to large crops -- aren't worried about the harvesting aspects. Almost all farmers are voluntarily contributing their $1.00 per bale assessment for promotion of cotton by the National Cotton Council, they said. This amount is deducted from the bale payments automatically by the ginner and can be returned only after the grower requests this return. Few have requested the return, the committee revealed.

Front, predecessor of the provisional revolutionary government, called for elections more than two months ago as part of its 10-point peace plan. The plan was endorsed by North Vietnam.

In President Nixon's eight-point program announced May 14, he called for internationally supervised elections in which "every significant group in South Vietnam" could participate.

Thieu's proposal added a call for establishment of an election commission, with all political factions represented, to assure "equal opportunities in the campaigning to all candidates" and an honest vote count. The president said he was prepared to discuss a timetable for the elections and other details with "the other side."

However, neither Thieu nor Nixon have specified what the elections would decide, and that question may form the basis of a conflict in the Saigon and NLF positions.

In a lengthy statement hailing Thieu's suggestions for a political approach to a settlement, Nixon said:

"If the other side genuinely wants peace, it now has a comprehensive set of offers which permit a fair and reasonable settlement. If it approaches us in this spirit, it will find us reasonable. Hanoi has nothing to gain by waiting."

Nixon noted that at his June 8 Midway Island meeting with Thieu, the two presidents "declared our readiness to accept any political outcome which is arrived at through free elections."

The President described Thieu's proposals as marking "the culmination of a long series of steps by the South Vietnamese and American governments all of which together demonstrate clearly the sincere desire of our two governments to negotiate an honorable and rapid settlement of the war."

In saying he and Tieu have declared themselves ready to accept any outcome arrived at through free elections Nixon underlined the word "any."

Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary, said there had been general consultation between Saigon and Washington during the preparation of Thieu's speech inviting the Communists to participate in free elections to be supervised by an international body.

Ziegler said the White House had a full text of Thieu's remarks before they were delivered. He likened the consultation to that which preceded the May 14 television - radio address putting forward an eight- point peace plan.

Group Presents Proposals To Ogilvie

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)-- More than 100 members of Cairo, Ill., and East St. Louis groups, called the United Front, planned to travel to Springfield today to present a series of proposals for resolving problems in troubled Cairo to Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

Charles Koen,, leader of the Cairo United Front was to lead the delegation. The group was to travel in two chartered buses.

Koen outlined the proposals earlier this week at the organizational meeting of the United Front in East St. Louis, when about 60 persons attended.

Koen said Ogilvie would be asked to declare Cairo a disaster area and bring the forces of government to hear on obtaining industry for the city and its people for jobs.

Both black and white leaders agree that depressed economic conditions in the city of 8,000 at the extreme southern tip of southern Illinois aggravate its racial problems.

National Guardsmen have been called on twice since July 1967 to put down arson, shooting incidents and disorders in Cairo. State police have been in Cairo in force this summer to help local police maintain order.

Koen said Ogilvie also will be asked to assign a special judge to Cairo to hear cases involving Negroes, support a jury selection system assuring that Negroes willbe "fairly represented" and designate a special assistant attorney general to serve in Cairo indefinitely.
